U.N. To Send Forces To Patrol Congo

Rioting Flares As Nation Breaks Ties With Belgium

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Riotous mobs rampaged through the streets of Leopoldville in a new orgy of looting and shooting today.

The new rampage by rebellious Congolese soldiers and jobless natives came as the United Nations moved to send in an international military force to restore peace and it was announced that the Republic of the Congo has broken diplomatic relations with Belgium.

The first U.N. troops were expected here shortly, perhaps in a couple of days. But Premiere Moise Tshombe of Katanga province announced that they will not be permitted to set foot there, since he has pulled Katanga out of the Congo republic and declared it a sovereign state.

JOINT PATROLS

Before the new outbreak of rioting, Belgian paratroopers and loyal Congolese soldiers had patrolled the city together under a "truce" arrangement designed to protect white Europeans from marauding natives until U.N. help arrives.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, special U.N. delegate to the Republic of the Congo, told newsmen here this afternoon that the U.N. troops would arrive in the Congo within 48 hours.

"There will be four battalions in by the end of next week," he said.

Bunche said Belgian troops will be withdrawn gradually as the United Nations contingent is built up. "The troops will have only defensive weapons and their trucks and equipment will be provided by their own nations," he said.

LATEST VIOLENCE

The latest violence apparently stemmed from resentment over news that two Congolese soldiers were killed fighting Belgian paratroopers yesterday.

The announcement of severance of relations between the Congo and Belgium was made to the chamber of deputies in Brussels.

The action came only hours after the United Nations Security Council voted 8 to 0 to

U.S. Cautions Russia: Hands Off Hemisphere

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, solemnly reaffirming the Monroe Doctrine, warned Russia today to keep its hands off Western hemisphere countries.

At the same time, the State Department denounced as a "naked menace to world peace" Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's implied threats that Soviet rockets might fly to help Cuba repel alleged American aggression.

In a sternly worded statement, the State Department accused Khrushchev of seeking to supplant the 137-year-old Monroe Doctrine with a "Bolshevik doctrine providing for the use of Soviet military power in support of Commun-

OWNER HELD UP

San Rafael Bar Robbed Of $800

A San Rafael widow was robbed at gunpoint shortly before 10 a.m. today in the B Street bar she owns and operates.

Mrs. Dahlia Meagor, 55, proprietor of Milani and Meagor Bar at Third and B Streets, said the exact amount of loss was yet unknown but believed to be about $800.

Mrs. Meagor said she came down from her upstairs residence about 9:40 a.m. to open the doors and set up the bar. About 10 minutes later, she said, a husky man between 40 and 50 years of age, wearing dark glasses, a sport cap and work clothes, walked in the side entrance on Third Street with a paper bag.

She said the man opened the bag, took out a gun, and pointed it at her, and said "Go close the front door."

Mrs. Meagor said she replied, "Are you kidding?"

"Do as I say if you want to live," retorted the man.

She said she then locked the double front door and at the man's command, opened the door to a store room at the rear of the bar. She said the robber told her to stay inside the store room.

A few moments later, she heard his hurried footsteps leaving by the side entrance. She immediately called police.

She said the man had taken only the bills and checks, leaving the coins in the register.

She told Police Inspector Nick Giampoli the gun appeared to be large and somewhat flat — probably an automatic.

Employees of Milani's Garage, immediately adjacent on Third Street, reported no one there had seen any suspicious person.

Police were checking a report that a man had been seen running south on B Street about the time of the robbery.

Shortly before 10:30 a.m., Mrs. Meagor was rushed by police to the Greenbrae interchange of Highway 101 to see if she could identify a possible suspect found riding a motorcycle southbound. She said the cycle rider was not the robber.

Three Major Projects For Marinship Presented To Sausalito's Planners

Three major projects that would recast the face of Marinship were presented to the Sausalito Planning Commission last night.

A. G. Schoonmaker Co., one of Sausalito's leading industrialists, disclosed plans for a $6,500,000 development which would include apartments, motels, a grocery, a farmer's market, restaurant, coffee house and seven shops.

Norman T. Johnson, Greenbrae contractor, and George P. Rischmuller of Norris Dispensers, Inc., of Sausalito, asked approval of plans for a 75-unit garden apartment project.

And, despite inclusion of a shopping center in Schoonmaker's plan, Allied Grocers and Heath Land Co. asked a use permit for a previously announced shopping center and seven-story office building.

All the new structures would go on land that has been a conglomeration of buildings, sheds and open spaces since Marinship grew up overnight in World War II to help build the ships to supply America's far-scattered troops.

Schoonmaker's development would be partly on land now owned by the company, adjoining the firm's big diesel engine and boat-building works.

It would include 16 12-unit apartment buildings, three 18-unit apartment buildings, a motel consisting of three 28-room buildings, one 36-room building and one three-room building, a 6,000-square foot grocery, a 4,000-square foot farmers' market, a restaurant, a coffee bar, and seven shops totaling 6,000 square feet. It would have offstreet parking. The three 28-room motel buildings, restaurant and coffee bar would be on filled land.

Planning commissioners called the proposal "quite astounding" and "a profound proposal."

The area is now zoned for heavy industry. However, the Sausalito general plan provides for light industry and general administrative use.

Johnson and Rischmuller asked a use permit for their 75-unit garden apartment project on land near the Shirley Morgan property.

The third development for the Allied Grocers-Heath Land Co. shopping center originally was put before the commission June 8. Last night a use permit was requested.

This development would in-

Kennedy, Demo Leaders Huddle On No. 2 Man

Symington, Jackson Believed Best Bets

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy and leaders of big state Democratic organizations huddled today on naming a party vice presidential nominee.

Kennedy, smashing winner of the presidential nomination, told newsmen when he arrived at his hotel headquarters that he thought it wouldn't take long to settle on the No. 2 man.

Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania, leaving a conference with Kennedy, said there had been no decision as yet. "He's going to talk with a lot of people, Lawrence said, referring to Kennedy.

The names still figuring highest in speculation were those of Sens. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Henry M. Jackson of Washington State.

TWO CHOICES

A close associate of Jackson told a reporter he understood Symington was Kennedy's "political choice" and Jackson was the "personal choice."

The distinction he was drawing was that Symington, a Midwesterner with strength among farmers, appeared better suited for a rounded ticket but that Kennedy has a closer personal relationship with Jackson.

Kennedy spent the night at an apartment hideaway, getting about five hours sleep after his late appearance before the convention. He was up at 7:30 a.m. and came down to his Biltmore Hotel political headquarters shortly after 10 o'clock.

LOOKS FRESH

He looked fresh and energetic.

There had been advance word from his aides that he would see Lawrence and Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

Others coming in included Mat McCloskey, one of the party's finance leaders; Carmine De Sapio, New York political leader, and Jacob Arvey, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois.

Kennedy left his headquarters and went to call on Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the formidable rival he defeated for the nomination.

It seemed to be mainly a gesture of respect for the party Senate leader.

'GENERAL TERMS'

Kennedy said the vice presidency was discussed with Johnson but only in "very general terms." He said he had not offered Johnson the second spot.

Kennedy also planned to meet with Adlai E. Stevenson, the presidential nominee in the last two campaigns.

Enlivening speculation as to who Kennedy's running mate will be, Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee entered Kennedy's hotel quarters after Kennedy returned from his call on Johnson. Gore has been among those mentioned for the vice-presidential spot on the ticket.

Nixon Aide Says Kennedy 'Formidable'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A spokesman for Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today Nixon regards Sen. John F. Kennedy as a "highly formidable opponent."

Nixon's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, told reporters Nixon anticipates a "close election" in the race for president, but remains confident he can win.

Klein announced that Nixon plans to leave Washington by chartered plane Monday, July 25, for the opening of the Republican National Convention at Chicago.

The vice president and his wife, Pat, will maintain headquarters there in the Blackstone Hotel.

Nixon himself had no direct comment on Kennedy's first-ballot victory for the presidential nomination at the Democratic Convention last night in Los Angeles.

Asylum Fire Kills 225 In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI)—Fire destroyed an overcrowded insane asylum in downtown Guatemala City today, killing at least 225 persons and injuring 300 others.

The victims included 175 women and 50 men. Most were burned to death or asphyxiated.

The asylum, a government-run institution which was part of the General Hospital of Guatemala City, had 1,600 mental patients. Its director, Jose A. Campos, had been complaining for some time that it was badly overcrowded.

The blaze broke out about 1 a.m. It was believed to have started in a sewing room where one of the less seriously ill patients may have left a burning candle.

It spread rapidly and raced from one to another of the seven big wards in the 40-year-old, one-story brick and cement building with a wooden roof. It was put out about two hours after it started.

It was believed most of the patients were asleep when the fire started, but they were awakened by other patients and the cries of injured victims.

IOWA GOVERNOR

Marin Woman's Kin Placed In Nomination

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES—A San Rafael woman sat high in the Los Angeles sports arena last night and heard her son-in-law nominated for President of the United States.

Mrs. Rebecca Harkins knew her daughter's husband wasn't a serious contender, that he was the favorite son nominee of his state, Iowa.

But "you can't imagine how it feels to sit here and hear your son-in-law nominated," she said. After Rep. Merwin Coad nominated Gov. Herschel Loveless, delegates from Iowa and a dozen other states snake-danced around the huge hall.

Mrs. Harkins strained her eyes through a small pair of opera glasses. "There's South Dakota; there's Kansas; there's California," she cried as she checked each banner. Finally she saw her other daughter, Lillian (Mrs. Leo Slye of San Rafael). "There she is in the dark dress behind that lady in pink."

Then she began to worry about the music. "They should play the Iowa corn song," she declared. "I wish I could get to that organist and tell him to play 'I'm From Iowa.'" Finally the band stopped and the organist did play it.

After the 15-minute demonstration she relaxed in her chair. "It was wonderful. I can't believe that that many people turned out to demonstrate for Herschel. It was very good."

Only moments later, after seconding speeches, Loveless took the podium and withdrew his name, urging support for Sen. John F. Kennedy. Nevertheless, three of his delegates remained loyal to him and he received 1½ votes for president.

It wasn't the only time Mrs. Harkins had seen her son-in-law in action during the convention. He had also been chairman of the convention's rules committee and had taken an active part in formulation of the party's agricultural plank.

Her granddaughter, Sandra Loveless, 19, was a page on the floor of the convention. And her daughter, Amelia, was sitting on the floor of the floor of the convention when her husband was nominated.

"It was thrilling and a wonderful experience to see how a president is nominated, especially under those conditions," declared Mrs. Harkins. "And I'm foolish enough to think that the next president of the United States will be a Democrat."

Kennedy Steamrollers In, But Southerners Aren't Smiling

DEMONSTRATION—Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota waves from rostrum to demonstrating Democratic delegates swarming around floor of Los Angeles Sports Arena after he nominated Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts as party's presidential candidate. (AP Wirephoto)

Johnson Promises To Help Carry Ticket To Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts held the cherished Democratic presidential nomination today.

But his roughshod ride over all opposition on the first ballot last night left some gaping holes in the "strong and united party in all parts of the United States" which he told a cheering convention he will lead into the November election.

RUNNING MATE?

In an attempt to placate angry Southerners threatening to walk out on the ticket, Kennedy might turn to Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri as his running mate.

Informed sources said the new nominee's choice had been narrowed to Symington and Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington.

Kennedy swept to smashing first-tally victory as the first Roman Catholic to be nominated for the presidency since Al Smith.

ONLY 409 VOTES

He rolled over Johnson, the South's choice, who collected only 409 votes. He left Adlai E. Stevenson far behind with 79½ scattered votes.

The booming tallies of the big states, where the heavy electoral vote will count most in November, put Kennedy across in a convention that had accepted his nomination as an almost foreclosed matter and had little for delegates to shout about.

In the showdown, New York laid 104½ votes on the line for Kennedy. Pennsylvania chipped in with 68, Ohio 64, Illinois 61½, Michigan 42½, Massachusetts 41, Indiana 34, and California 33½.

SCATTERED VOTES

Scattered votes—many of them from the West where Johnson believed he was strong—lifted Kennedy to his winning totals.

The South wanted none of the 43-year-old gladiator who had showed his elders among his opponents that by winning all the primaries in which he was entered and in tireless campaigning for more than two years he had forged a crushing machine.

Kennedy didn't get a single convention vote from Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas or Virginia. He harvested only 3½ in Alabama and 6 in North Carolina.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas, angered by Johnson's defeat, put out a chilly statement that he would vote for the ticket headed by Kennedy but would not work for it.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas was unhappy but he said he is a good Democrat and will abide by the result.

Johnson himself sent Kennedy a wire offering "warm congratulations" and promising help "in every way to carry the whole Democratic ticket to victory."

Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina made an official demand that his state not be recorded as joining the acclamation for Kennedy's nomination.

Sources close to the governor said the state's electors may be instructed to vote for some other person than Kennedy in the Electoral College.

More trouble could be expected from Mississippi, which supported Gov. Ross R. Barnett.

Kennedy came before the cheering delegates and told them jokingly he could not give them his official acceptance until Friday, but said they could guess his answer.

GALLERIES WANTED HIM

Stevenson Suffers Defeat From Demos

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The gallery wanted Adlai E. Stevenson.

But the delegates, the only one with votes, wanted young Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

So Stevenson, now 60, suffered another defeat, and lost forever all hope of becoming president of the United States.

In 1952 and 1956 he was defeated by the Republicans. This time it was his own party which, having nominated him twice for the presidency, refused to give him another chance.

Rejected along with him was another valiant Democrat, Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of F. D. R. This valiant lady, a fighter still at 75, did her heroic best for Stevenson.

The delegates said no. The galleries said yes, and said it so stridently that it must have rattled windows in the homes of television watchers across the nation.

But there were no votes in the galleries, only people.

So Stevenson and Mrs. R. lost.

Stevenson wasn't a candidate, on the record, for another shot at the presidency, but only his name detonated the galleries. Only Stevenson's name generated passion.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, 44, put Stevenson in nomination.

Mrs. Roosevelt was the last of the Stevenson seconders. The delegates rose and cheered. A couple of hours later they nominated Kennedy.

PROUD MOTHER—Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, 70-year-old matriarch of the Kennedy clan, stands proudly beside her son, Sen. John F. Kennedy, after he was selected as Democratic presidential candidate. (AP Wirephoto)

Team Spirit, Money, Stamina—All From Family—Helped John Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Kennedy clan — three generations of it — went to bat with money, sweat and stamina to get Sen. John F. Kennedy the Democratic presidential nomination.

Their team spirit got its start on the playing fields of Harvard. They found it could score for them in politics too.

Alongside Jack were Kennedys ranging from his multimillionaire father, Joseph P. Kennedy, ex-ambassador to Britain, to the family's 16 grandchildren.

The subtle rules of the game left the ranking Kennedy clansman on the sidelines, though.

Joe Kennedy, 71, whose major ambition is to see his son president, kept out of the campaign front line and made no public speeches.

Jack and his aides reportedly thought it best for the controversial old man to stay on the sidelines, though they say he exerted "terrific" influence over Jack.

Joe Kennedy has his own political scars. He served as U.S. ambassador to Britain in the days of Munich and Adolph Hitler.

He was called an appeaser, a charge he said was "false and malicious."

Eight years ago, when son Jack launched his Senate career, father Joe tried to sever the cords of political inheritance.

Joe Kennedy declared he was "in complete disagreement with his son" on foreign policy. "I couldn't possibly have a worse argument with anyone about foreign policy than I have had with my son," he added.

He didn't make public speeches or campaign for his son. But even then he wore a deep blue tie with the silver inscription "Kennedy for President," a gift from friends.

The driving ambition of presidential candidate Kennedy doubtless comes from his Irish-Catholic father. Brought up in a moderately well-to-do Boston family, Joe Kennedy set out to be a millionaire by the time he was 35 — and succeded far ahead of schedule.

Today, Joe Kennedy's wealth, derived from banking, liquor, the motion picture industry, shipping and Wall Street interests, has been estimated in the tens of millions.

When the clan gathers at the family summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass., on Cape Cod, athletics is usually the main interest. Touch football has long been a favorite with them.

Joe Kennedy's four sons followed in his footsteps and were graduated from Harvard, where they starred at baseball, football or swimming.

Eldest son, Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., was killed as a Navy pilot in World War II. He had been the first of the young Kennedys to embark on a political career.

Kathleen Kennedy, already a war widow, was killed in a plane crash in Franch in 1948.

Brothers Edward and Robert are both lawyers.

Edward, 28, took over in 1958 as Jack's campaign manager and has been in the thick of things since.

When Jack ran for the senate in 1952, brother Robert F. had the campaign job.

Sisters Patricia, Jean and Eunice joined the campaign.

Jack's sister Rosemary shuns publicity. Now 40, she teaches at a Catholic school for exceptional children, St. Coletta's at Jefferson, Wis.

Brown Asks Full Support For Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Brown called on the split ranks of California's Democrats today to forget their national convention differences and work for John F. Kennedy's election.

Brown told a post-midnight news conference he was glad California had a part in Kennedy's victory.

The state didn't give the New England senator its majority vote, as the governor had hoped to deliver, but he felt the Kennedy share was enough to help put him over.

To critics of his support of Kennedy, he said in effect "I told you so"—that he would win on the first ballot.

The 162-member delegation, with 81 votes, was split down to the moment when Sen. Clair Engle, the chairman, stood up and called out:

Kennedy 33½, Stevenson 31½, Symington 8, Johnson 7½ and Brown ½.

Boos rang out in the arena at the mention of Brown's name.

In the aftermath of the nomination, there was no mention of a Californian for vice president, or for national party chairman for that matter.

CHEERS WERE IMPRESSIVE

'Stevenson Could Be Governor Of California,' Delegate Says

LOS ANGELES — "Well the Stevenson demonstration certainly proved one thing, that he could be elected Governor of California."

That was the remark of State Sen. Waverly (Jack) Slattery of Mendocino County. It told the story of an unsuccessful attempt to "draft" Stevenson and of the success of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who taught the "old pros" that to win a race you have to start running.

The Stevenson demonstration was an impressive thing. The aisles on the floor of the Los Angeles Sports Arena were packed with cheering, waving and weaving demonstrators. But it was in the galleries that the former Illinois governor had his greatest support. On all sides the galleries literally bloomed with banners. Demonstrators formed processions and danced around the gallery walkways.

Newsmen who saw the Republican convention in 1940 said the Stevenson demonstration exceeded the successful one managed for unknown Wendell L. Willkie.

But not even the voice of the California public, which also sounded in the halls in telegrams, phone calls and letters, could stop the carefully conceived and well executed campaign of Kennedy. This wasn't a real contest. It was Kennedy all the way.

Although the voice of California loudly shouted "We want Stevenson," the votes of its delegation were not so emphatic. Stevenson had held the largest block of votes Tuesday afternoon when the delegates were polled, 31½, compared to 30½ for Kennedy. But when the votes were cast last night, Kennedy had taken control with 33½ votes. Stevenson after vote switches both to and from him, wound up with exactly the same number as before, 31½. Other candidates who received votes in the California delegation were Lyndon Johnson 7½, a gain of one since the Tuesday polling; Stuart Symington 8, a loss of one; and Gov. Edmund G. Brown ½, a loss of 2½. Brown's name was booed by the gallery when his vote was tallied.

Marin's delegation swung unanimously to the victor. William M. Roth of Sausalito, who had voted for Stevenson in the polling, actually cast his ballot for Kennedy. With other delegates Roger Kent, Elizabeth Smith, Nancy Swadesh and alternate Harold Morgan agreeing Kennedy was the man, Marin's four half-votes went to the winner.

This evening, the delegates will select a vice presidential candidate, and tomorrow night in a huge outdoor program in Memorial Coliseum, the delegates will receive the acceptance speeches of their nominees, then pack their bags and head for home.

Presbyterians Name Little To Hospital Position

John Russell Little, provost of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, has been elected president of the board of trustees of the new San Francisco Presbyterian Medical Center, it was announced yesterday.

Little headed negotiations with Stanford University which resulted in the sale of Stanford Hospital to the Presbyterian Church.

He was named provost of the Presbyterian seminary in San Anselmo last January, when it was in the midst of planning an ambitious expansion program. Little will continue in the post as provost in charge of the seminary's administrative affairs.

He retired last Dec. 31 as vice president and general manager of Foote, Cone and Belding, advertising agency. His home is in San Francisco.

JOINS THE 'GOOD LIFE'

Tomasino Belaporriti, 25, is getting away from it all and taking his dog Yoyo along. He left San Francisco yesterday and putted through Marin on his scooter, heading for Yellowstone National Park, Washington, D.C., and—he hopes—Europe. Belaporriti stopped briefly for a rest and suntan lotion and a talk with Yoyo on Highway 101 south of Novato. He is a University of California at Los Angeles student. (Independent-Journal photo)

MMWD Lets Contract For Clearing Site

A contract was awarded by the Marin Municipal Water District board last night for clearing trees and brush from the Nicasio dam site.

Al Hawarth of Stockton won the contract with a bid of $25,144, lowest of five which ran all the way to a high bid of $80,000.

The board approved a county bill of $218,700 for relocation work on the Point Reyes-Petaluma Road to make way for the dam.

The Nicasio project is proceeding on schedule, it was indicated. The dam is expected to impound water of next winter's rainfall.

A resolution passed by the board authorized sale of three million dollars' worth of bonds to keep up with financing needs of the Nicasio dam project. More bonds will be sold later as the money is needed.

Bids were called to be opened July 27, on Lagunitas and San Geronimo pump stations on north Marin transmission lines.

A request was received from United Assn. of Journeymen and Apprentices of Plumbing and Pipefitting Union, Local 38, San Francisco, asking a meeting with the board to discuss working conditions and other matters.

A legal opinion 10 years ago advised the board that it could sign with a union but last night the board was advised that subsequent supreme court decisions had proved this view in error and indicated that the district could not contract with any union. Manager William Seeger was accordingly instructed to convey this point to the union inquirers.

Mrs. Lillian Loran of the Children's Dental Health Committee was informed the board will not change its position of remaining neutral on the question of fluoridation of water supplies. The committee is seeking to put the fluoridation issue on the ballot again in November.

OBITUARIES

Dulce Duncan Ray Of Sausalito Dies

Dulce Duncan Ray, Sausalito photographer and active member of the Sausalito little Theater group, died of cancer Tuesday in a San Francisco hospital.

Mrs. Ray, widow of Charles Richard Ray, San Francisco electrical engineer, spent her childhood in Sausalito and attended Tamalpais High and Katherine Branson schools. She moved with her family to San Francisco in the early 1930s, returning to Sausalito several years later after her marriage.

She was the daughter of the late Charles W. and Constance Duncan, her mother also having spent her childhood in Sausalito. Mrs. Ray's training in photography came from her father. Her work has appeared in a number of national magazines, and she was official photographer for the Golden Gate Bridge during its construction. Her father was, for the most of his working life, art director for Foster and Kleiser Outdoor Advertising Co.

A brother, Gregor Duncan, was killed during World War II on the Anzio Beachhead in Italy. A sergeant, he was an artist on the staff of Stars and Stripes. The death of her husband also was tragic. He disappeared Oct. 9, 1953, and his body was found Feb. 26, 1954, under a hollow tree on the Teixeila Ranch near Bolinas.

Mrs. Ray was active in "People to People," an organization which sponsors adoption of foreign cities by their American counterparts, and had sent many pictures of Sausalito to its adopted sister city, Vino Del Mar, Chile. She was working on the project at the time of her death.

Her home was at 181 San Carlos Avenue.

She is survived by a son, Duncan, 19, a daughter, Robin, 16, and a sister, Mrs. Hubert Sorenson of San Francisco.

At the request of the deceased, no funeral services are planned. Contributions to the cancer society were requested.

Mueller is survived by his wife, Catherine; three sons and a daughter, Michael, John III, Kevin and Cynthia; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mueller Sr., San Francisco; three brothers, Robert, of San Francisco, Joseph of San Rafael and James of Milwaukee, and a sister, Mrs. Gerda M. Chapman of Corte Madera.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 o'clock tonight at the Redwood Chapel in Novato. A High Mass will be sung at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Loretto Church, Novato. Interment will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

He was a native of Italy and started at 12 as a tailor's apprentice. He received a diploma as a custom designer from a school in Torino, Italy.

Two Planes Crash In Philippines; 87 Survive, One Dies

MANILA (AP)—Two airliners carrying a total of 88 persons crashed almost simultaneously in Phillippine waters at opposite ends of the island chain yesterday. An Ohio woman was killed. All the others survived.

First, a Philippine Airlines DC-3 ditched near Dumaguete, off Negros Island in the south. Bad weather had prevented its scheduled landing at Zamboanga City on a flight from Manila, and the plane ran out of gas. The 27 passengers and three crewmen all reached shore safely.

Eight minutes later a crippled Northwest Orient Airlines DC-7C, its left wing afire, ditched off the Polillo Islands 85 miles northwest of Manila with 58 persons. The plane sank seven minutes after it was ditched.

U. S. military amphibious planes picked up the 57 survivors and the woman's body and brought them to Manila.

The American airliner had been approaching Manila as its final stop in a flight from New York via Seattle, Anchorage, Tokyo and Okinawa.

About an hour before the Northwest airliner crash, the pilot reported his No. 2 propeller had "run away" and he was unable to feather it. Then the engine caught fire, the flames spread to the wing, and the four-engine DC-7C hit the water.

Rescue planes sighted signal flares on the water near the crash scene, put down, and taxied up to the survivors huddled on four rafts.

The dead woman was identified by an airplane spokesman as Mrs. Clyde Kelley, 52, of Springfield, Ohio.

Her body was found floating in the water.

Most of the passengers were in good spirits and full of praise for pilot David Rall of Seattle, Wash., and the six members of his crew.

PREDICTION TILTS

Prophet Bearded In Den; Not Doomsday After All

COURMAYEUR, Italy (AP)—It's not doomsday after all.

The zero hour has passed without Dr. Elio Bianca's dire prediction of a world shattering cataclysm coming true.

The bearded Milan pediatrician had predicted that a mystery "mercury bomb" explosion would tilt the world off its axis and touch off a second deluge. Only he and his believers would escape disaster.

So with 100 followers Bianca set up a salvation station on Mt. Blanc, and calmly prepared to sit out the end of civilization.

Bianca did not say who would touch off the bomb. He said it would be an accident. It would send the seas boiling in over the lowlands of the earth.

The Bianca group headed for the mountain at the start of the month but their preparations were useless.

As the hour approached, Bianca and his followers locked themselves in the hut. About 300 sightseers stood outside. Several minutes after the hour passed, a door of the hut opened and one of Bianca's followers put his head outside the door. He was greeted by boos and jeers from the crowd so he pulled his head back inside.

Bianca did not make an appearance.

In the Alpine valley below "Survival Island," people took the whole thing calmly. A dance hall proprietor announced a contest tonight to elect "Miss End of the World."

Wishard Brown Gets ANPA Post

The appointment was announced in New York by Mark Ferree, ANPA president. Chairman of the committee will be Harold Shugard of the St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch and Pioneer Press.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Bastille Day

PARIS (UPI)—France paraded her reborn military might before President Charles de Gaulle today on Bastille Day.

Nearly 11,000 crack French troops marched or rode past the president for one-and-a-half hours down the broad tricolor-draped Champs Elysees. Bastille Day is France's biggest national holiday. It observes the 171st anniversary of the storming of the bastille prison in 1789 which touched off the French Revolution.

Dogs Gone

BALTIMORE (AP)—Miss Florence Smythe is going to be lonely. She'll have only two dogs for company. She had 30 until today.

Neighbors of the 59-year-old woman complained to police about so many dogs in her small house. She was charged with disturbing the peace.

Magistrate Howard Aaron offered to dismiss the charge if she would part with 28 of the dogs.

Ending a long dispute over operations of facilities at the site of the 1960 Olympic Winter Games, the state yesterday signed a lease with William A. Newsom Jr. and John Pelosi.

Too Many Bananas

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—A 13-year-old Pueblo girl, Cynthia Johnson, toppled in a faint and was taken to a hospital.

When she revived, she told a doctor: "I ate 15 bananas."

Health Studios Hit

SACRAMENTO (AP)—An assembly subcommittee recommends legal bars to some dance and health studio practices it says verge "seriously close to fraud and extortion."

In a report yesterday, the group suggested five proposals to prevent studios from taking customers for their life savings.

They would forbid lifetime contracts, limit prepaid contracts to one year and prepayment to $500, prohibit assignment of contracts to professional agencies for collection and require contracts to provide for termination on death or disability.

Powder Puff Winner

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)—Mrs. Aileen Saunders of El Cajon won the Powder Puff Derby, the transcontinental air race for woman pilots, for the second consecutive year yesterday.

Mrs. Saunders has competed four times in the race which began from Torrance last Saturday and ended at nearby New Castle County Airport, a distance of 2,509 miles.

Strike In India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—India was crippled today by a wave of strikes, sympathy walkouts and demonstrations protesting low wages.

While Indian officials were plagued by strike troubles, riots by fanatical Assamese against minority groups spread into villages in the interior.

Five hundred government employees at the accountant general's office and the central revenue building in New Delhi walked out today and milled around the offices.

Coed Slain In Library On U.C. Campus

BERKELEY (AP) — The quiet of the University of California's main library was shattered yesterday by two shots. One killed a 21-year-old coed, one blinded the girl's slayer in a suicide attempt.

Sonja Lillian Hoff looked up from her book to see a fellow senior from Long Beach who had changed his name from Bertran Joseph Howk to Mohammed Abdullah.

Witnesses told police Abdullah, 21, strode directly up to the blonde Berkeley girl, pulled a .38-caliber revolver from his pocket, and fired point-blank at her forehead, killing her.

Abdullah fired a second shot into his own head. He was taken to a hospital in a critical condition, blinded in one eye. Hospital atendants said he was expected to live.

Friends of the dead girl said there had apparently been a one-sided love affair and that Miss Hoff had told Abdullah to leave her alone.

AFTER STABBING—Former Japanese Prime Minister Nobuske Kishi is carried to an ambulance in Tokyo after he was stabbed in the leg six times by a rightist fanatic. His wounds were not serious. Police arrested a member of an ultra-right-wing political group. (AP Wirephoto)

OUT OF DANGER

Kishi Stabbed 6 Times By Fanatic

TOKYO (AP) — A rightist fanatic stabbed Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi six times in the left thigh with a hunting knife today.

Doctors said Kishi would be out of the hospital in 10 days, and his ruling Liberal-Democratic party went ahead with plans to accept his resignation and elect Trade Minister Hayato Ikeda prime minister tomorrow.

Kishi was attacked at the prime minister's official residence as he drank champagne toasts with party leaders in celebration of Ikeda's election earlier today to succeed him as party president. The party election was a preliminary to the government change which Kishi had promised after the controversial U.S.-Japanese security treaty took effect last month.

Bleeding profusely, Kishi was rushed to a nearby hospital. A secretary said he was cracking jokes with visitors within an hour. One of his doctors said neither the artery nor the sciatic nerve had been cut.

Police arrested the assailant, Daisuke Aramaki, 65, a member of a small, uninfluential rightist group. He refused to say why he had attacked the prime minister or how he had obtained the Liberal-Democratic party badge that he used to enter the official residence.

The attack on Kishi occurred just a month after another rightist stabbed and injured a prominent Socialist, Jotaro Kawakami, near the Parliament Building. The two attacks aroused fears that Japan is in for a revival of the pre-war terrorism in which the notorious rightist Black Dragon Society played a leading role.

Kishi is the fourth Japanese prime minister of the 20th century to be a terrorist victim. The others were Takashi Hara, fatally stabbed in 1921; Yuko Hamaguchi, wounded in 1930; and Tsuyoshi Inukai, assassinated by rebellious army officers in 1932.

Marin Pianist Wins Applause For Concerto

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

David Del Tredici's performance of the Tchaikovsky's Concerto No. 1 for piano and orchestra was the outstanding number on last night's second in the 10th series of popular concerts being presented this summer by the San Francisco Symphony under direction of Arthur Fiedler.

Although the 23-year-old concert pianist lives in San Anselmo, this is not mere chauvinism at the county level, for the large audience that nearly filled the San Francisco Civic Auditorium applauded the concerto more enthusiastically than any other number.

Moreover, it was such a quiet and attentive audience that one could have heard the proverbial pin drop during Del Tredici's pianissimo passages—a remarkable situation at a pops concert where refreshments are being served.

This is not to say that the reading of the frequently performed work was flawless, either on the part of the orchestra or that of the young artist. His playing of the opening part of the first movement was unsure in the ascending runs, but with apparent growth of confidence, his real mastery of the necessary bravura technique became evident.

For this primarily Slavic composition, his interpretation was rather Chopinesque, though the work does contain fleet, delicate arabesques and cantabile melodies in which his style showed to advantage. It was difficult to determine whether it was this delicacy of touch or the too-loud playing of the orchestra, or perhaps even acoustics, that made it impossible to hear him part of the time.

There is no question that the young artist has great talent that with maturity and experience should take him far

Underground Offices Asked For Emergency State Capitol

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Seven underground shelters to keep California's government going in the event of a nuclear attack are proposed by the State Disaster Office. The cost: five and one-half million dollars.

Biggest and most expensive would be an emergency capitol under Sacramento with facilities for 400 state officers and key personnel and supplies to permit them to stay down for two weeks.

Regional shelters would be built in each of the six civil defense regions of the state.

"Only thus can the state be assured on continuity of state government from the earliest phases of a war-caused disaster," the diasaster office said. "It appears unequivocal that a threat exists."

The State Finance Department apparently unconvinced, placed the request for the first $2,630,000 in the "policy" category instead of recommending it for inclusion in the 1961-62 state budget. That means the department thinks it needs more study.

U.S.-Soviet Battle Shapes Up In U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bitter United Nations battle between the Soviet Union and the United States seemed assured today over the issue of which of the two great powers is responsible for threatening world peace.

The issue was sharply drawn last night when President Eisenhower accepted a Soviet challenge on U.S. aircraft flights and declared his determination to make a case "on the lawless actions and reckless threats of the Soviet government."

The challenge was hruled by the Soviet government when Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a few hours earlier demanded an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council. In a cable to U.N. headquarters he charged the U.S. Air Force with aggressive activities against the Soviet Union, and said they constitute a threat to the peace of the world.

In a statement from his vacation headquarters at Newport, R. I., Eisenhower declared the United States is "ready and willing" to go to the Security Council for a full discussion of what he called the "wanton shooting down" by the Russians of an RB-47 plane July 1.

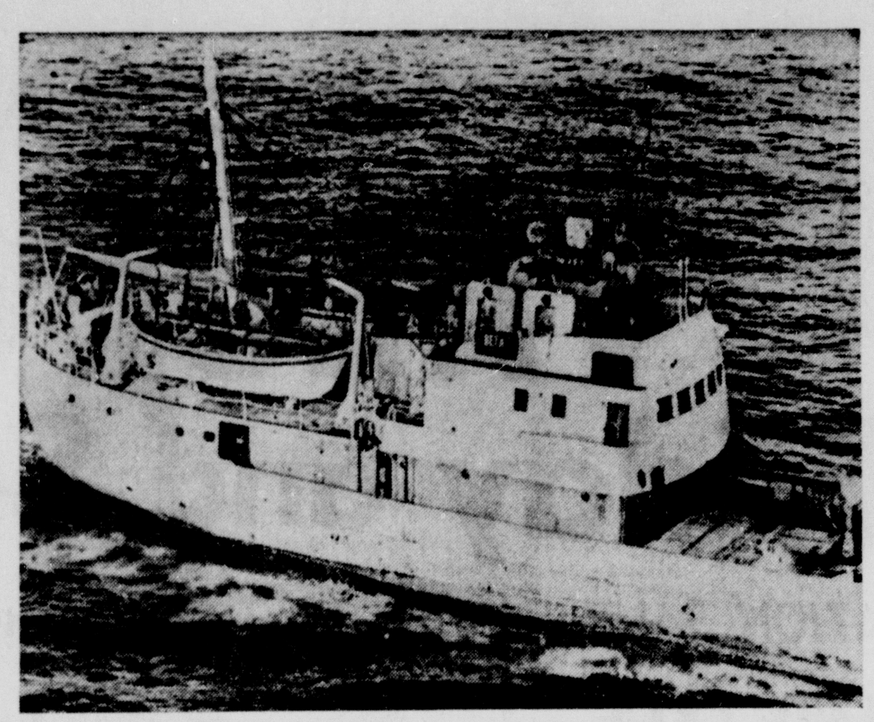
The United States declared in a note to Moscow Tuesday that the plane was shot down over international waters at least 30 miles from the Soviet coast on the Barents Sea.

The Soviet Union had charged the previous day that the jet reconnaissance bomber had violated Soviet air space. A Soviet note to Washington linked the RB-47 flight with the May Day U-2 spy flight which went down in the Ural Mountains.

About the time that the president's statement was being released at Newport, the Navy said in Washington that a Soviet trawler which cruised close to the Atlantic coast last April was an electronic spy ship.

The Navy said the trawler Vega was engaged in bold reconnaissance activities. The craft showed up in the midst of tests being conducted by the U.S. nuclear submarine George Washington.

The Vega later cruised down the coast to as close as 12 miles off Cape Henry, Va. The cape is at the approaches to the big U.S. Navy base and fleet anchorage in the Norfolk and Hampton Roads area.



SOVIET SNOOPER—This is an air view of the Russian trawler Vega, photographed off the Atlantic Coast in April. The Navy claims it is an "electronic spy ship," with 11 different types of antennae mounted on it, capable of covering any frequency in radio or radar.

Fire Chief Wants Old Order Copied

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fire Chief Edward McCabe has suggested that a 2,000-year-old order be inscribed above the main doorway of Milwaukee's new fire department administration building.

The order was issued by a Roman emperor to his fire department. It reads: "Thou shalt be the safety of those who sleep, guardian of houses, protector of sacred enclosures, watching in the night."

Golf Clubs Missing At Meadow Course

A set of golf clubs in a bag, worth about $400, is missing from the clubhouse at the Meadow Club in Fairfax, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Charles Marquard of 401 Avila street, San Francisco, told officers he left the golf equipment in a bag at the clubhouse last Friday. Tuesday, he noticed the bag was missing.

Rouse Ready To Take Hub Council Seat

Robert E. Rouse, named Tuesday night to succeed Mrs. Carmel H. Booth on the San Anselmo City Council, will have to wait until tomorrow night to take the oath of office.

A quorum of the council was not available for a swearing-in ceremony scheduled last night, City Clerk Anita M. Gannon reported today.

Mrs. Gannon said the council will also sit tomorrow night as a board of equalization if assessment rolls are received in time from the county assessor's office. So far, she said, no assessment protest has been received by the city.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

TRACY, Minn. (UPI)—Farmer Alden Jensen blamed a gopher hole for a break in his dike that permitted waters of the Des Moines River to flood his land.

Geronimo Valley Plan Detailed For Residents

Sixty persons filled the Woodacre Improvement Club hall last night to hear how a proposed new San Geronimo Valley master plan and interim zoning would affect them.

The master plan committee took no action, and scheduled another meeting for Aug. 4 at 8 p.m. at Lagunitas School, in order to make recommendations to the county planning commission on Aug. 8.

The committee agreed to look into a suggestion that no interim zoning be enacted but that any new commercial building require a use permit.

The committee accepted the resignations of Mrs. J. Brook Robinson, Mrs. Frederic F. Manley and Charles Davis. Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Manley, who had been serving as chairman and secretary, respectively, were retained in these posts as non-voting members of the committe. Davis submitted his resignation by letter, saying that as one of three members on the committee not representing a group, he felt that he should withdraw.

Frank Manning, representing Lagunitas, Forest Knolls, and San Geronimo commercial property owners, attended his first meeting as a committee member.

State Calls Bids For Marin Bridge

The California Division of Highways has called for bids for constructing a two-lane bridge and approaches at Miller Creek on the future route of Lucas Valley Road.

The project is a stage of realignment on the route.

Bids will be opened in Sacramento Aug. 10, with $61,800 available. This will include $33,356 in federal funds, $24,144 in state matching money and $4,300 in county funds.

Cars Splattered

At least four parked cars were splattered with tar on D Street in San Rafael yesterday afternoon, apparently from an overflowing tar pot that rolled by behind a roofing truck.

Mill Valley Budget Put At $600,000

By BRUCE COLEMAN

One fireman will be added to the Mill Valley Fire Department under the 1960-61 budget, tentatively set at $600,116, City Manager A. E. Almcrants said today.

City council members this week discussed the tentative budget figure, which is $28,187 more than last year's total of $571,929. The council foresees, Almcrants said, a drop in the city tax rate of 23 cents, from $2.09 to $1.86, because of increased assessed valuation.

The final budget figure is expected to be set in August, after final assessment figures are received from County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel. First figures received from the assessor, used to work out the temporary budget, give Mill Valley total assessed valuation of $18,637,565, with public utilities figures not yet received.

No other new personnel will be added this year under the proposed budget, the city manager said. The fireman is expected to be hired soon since he will be needed during the present fire season, Almcrants added.

Figures comparing the funds of last year's budget with this year's tentative budget are as follows:

General fund for 1960-61 is tentatively $352,016, an increase of $21,054 over last year; parks and recreation, $31,873, an increase of $2,074; sewers operation and maintenance, $56,248, an increase of $1,348; library, $49,012, an increase of $3,933; drainage, $6,400, an increase of $400; bond interest and redemption, $43,767, a decrease of $968; golf course and clubhouse, $36,000, a decrease of $615; pensions, $14,800, an increase of $961.

The budget includes a new police car, plus installation of radar in an old police car, as well as other equipment including a tape recorder.

The budget allows $2,000 for changing the radio frequency for fire communications. Almcrants said the city hopes to get a weapons carrier so the present three-ton truck can be used for fire fighting.

The budget includes money for painting the city hall and buying additional city hall furture. A bulldozer and a two-ton truck for the street department are included.

The sum of $4,000 has been set up toward resurfacing of the tennis courts.

Five cents has been added to the library tax rate to create a reserve for future development.

The planning commission would be allowed $3,600, the same as last year. The city's flood control fund is to be boosted from $36,534 to $42,934.

Building Permits

Seventeen building permits for construction valued at a total of $177,880 were issued last week by the Marin County Building Inspection Department. Included is a permit for a $57,600 home at 381 Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley.

Novatan Must Face Rape Trial

A Novato truck driver was bound over to superior court for trial on a rape charge, after testimony yesterday by a 19-year-old expectant mother from Novato.

The woman, married only June 14, accused Joe Andrew York, 33, of attacking her at her home on July 4. She told Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court that York came to a party at her home uninvited. She had seen him earlier that day at a Novato bar.

York lives at 98 Grande Vista, Novato, with his wife. He is free on $1,050 bail, pending trial.

NOVATO LOSES SCHOOL BUILDING

The half-demolished hulk of the Grant Avenue School on Highway 101 in Novato headed for the ground yesterday. The State Division of Highways ordered the demolition, after buying the land to prevent commercial development and protect right of way for the proposed eight-lane Highway 101—for which city officials are urging a different route. Union Crane and Rigging Co., San Francisco, is demolishing the building with a two-ton swinging ball and a bulldozer.

Hopps Expected To Deny Mail Fraud

Within the next two weeks Belvedere insurance financier Stewart B. Hopps is expected to appear in a Baltimore federal court and deny mail fraud charges of a grand jury indictment, his attorney said today.

Hopps is to be arraigned without hearing at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow before U.S. Commissioner Joseph Karesh in San Francisco.

Attorney J. Edward Fleishell said Hopps, now at liberty on $10,000 bond, will file another bond to guarantee appearance in Baltimore at a hearing which has not been set.

He said no copy of the indictment has been furnished Hopps and information so far depends on "a press release from the publicity department of the Department of Justice."

The department's allegations center around contention that Hopps was at one time "American manager" for International Guaranty and Insurance Co. of Tangier.

The Justice Department said the indictment was based on evidence that Hopps directed preparation of a brochure listing assets above three million dollars, although "aware that more than half of this represented worthless stocks and bonds of Panamanian companies which existed only on paper" while an additional $236,167 worth of listed assets "consisted only of worthless claims" in an insolvent Alabama corporation.

Hopps was also said to have mailed "false and fraudulent" statements concerning the assets. The brochure is said to have "falsely claimed" that International had extensive reinsurance facilities which Hopps "well knew" were lacking.

Special exception was taken by Fleishell to any contention that Hopps had "caused the brochure to be mailed." Fleishell said Hopps "had nothing to do with mailing anything to anyone."

Terming the charges "vicious and unfounded," Hopps said in a statement issued through Fleishell that "I was never U.S. manager for International Guaranty and all testimony has confirmed that I was merely a paid technical adviser. . . . My advice was related to production of business and underwriting."

The department said the indictment had two counts, one alleging the mailing of a copy of the allegedly fraudulent asset statement to the Maryland insurance commissioner, the second, the mailing of similar statement to the Baltimore Business Bureau.

approve a Tunisian resolution coupling authorization for the international military force with a call for Belgium to withdraw its troops.

But the Belgian government made it clear that, while it would pull its troops back to bases within the Congo, it would not withdraw them from the country entirely.

Tshombe said at Elisabethville that he had sent U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold a letter informing him of his decision to keep U.N. troops out of Katanga.

Elisabethville was reported taking the first steps back to normal life today, but residents in outlying districts still face invasion by rebels.

Some of these people headed home for places like the town of Jadotville, a mining center not far from Elisabethville, which bore the brunt of raping, pillaging and shooting by drunken natives last week. They didn't know what they would find, for no one yet knew the full story of the rape of Jadotville.

After the Security Council vote, the Belgian cabinet sent a message to the Congo government giving assurance that Belgian troops would be withdrawn as soon as U.N. troops were placed on duty.

Many of the African troops refused to recognize the Leopoldville "truce." Rebels outside the city were swelling their ranks with scores of unemployed Africans. The "recruits" were being outfitted with uniforms and arms.

Food was running out in the Congolese quarter of the city. It was estimated that no more than three days supply for the 350,000 Africans in the area remained.

Belgian paratroops who gained control of Leopoldville and its airport after an airdrop operation yesterday were holding a thin strip of the European section, about a mile wide and four miles long with their back to the Congo river, and the road to the airport.

Hundreds of Europeans, who had hoped the arrival of the Belgian forces would end the reign of terror, hurried to waterfront ferries to join earlier refugees in nearby Brazzaville.

The Congolese government announced it had appealed urgently to the Negro republic of Ghana for help.

Ghana Premier Kwame Nkrumah ordered the chief of the army's defense staff to confer with Congolese officials.

(In London, the Ghana high commissioner's office said Ghana was in a position to send in troops immediately.)

Boy Breaks Arm On Trampoline

A 14-year-old youth yesterday broke his arm in an accident at the Trampoline Center at 836 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Center manager Dean Moon said Barry Stewardson of 20 Ormand Court, Novato, turned a flip and fractured his left arm when he came back down on the canvas.

"The boy did not fall from the trampoline, nor did he springs too high," said Moon.

Stewardson was taken by Moon to San Rafael General Hospital where today he was reported in good condition.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stewardson.

Trustees Set $80,000 Issue In Lagunitas

The Lagunitas School District board decided last night that a school bond issue to be submitted to voters in September would amount to $80,000. The board also voted to request $210,000 in state aid for a school building program.

The board Tuesday had called for a bond election Sept. 13, but was informed yesterday by Asst. County Counsel Warren McGuire that it would have to select a more favorable date, reported Mrs. Georgette H. Vilas, board clerk.

McGuire suggested Sept. 20. A special board meeting was to be held at the school today to change the date.

The $290,000 is the approximate cost of the construction of five new class rooms and a multi-purpose room, plus related facilities, said Mrs. Vilas.

The board was advised by Rudolph S. Kupfer, assistant county superintendent of school business, that the bond issue and state aid figures were the maximum allowed by law for the amount of construction undertaken, said Mrs. Vilas.

She said the decision was unanimous with only herself being absent.

President Eisenhower personally approved the department declaration which was read to newsmen by a department spokesman at a press conference.

A separate action underscored U. S. criticism of Soviet attitudes. The United States suddenly postponed talks with Russia on civil air service, on the grounds that recent Soviet actions and utterances have worsened the international atmosphere.

The aviation talks were due to start Monday. A Russian delegation led by Col. Gen. E. F. Loginov was due to arrive this afternoon.

But the State Department called off the talks "until a more suitable time," setting no date.

Thief Takes $50 In Coins At Church

A thief broke into Peace Lutheran Church in Mill Valley and stole about $50 in rolled coins, the pastor, Rev. Harold G. Johnson, reported to the sheriff yesterday.

Investigators said the front door to the office had been pried open, and a filing cabinet forced open. The pastor's desk had been opened, but nothing else of value was disturbed.

That was the last Shepard saw of the motorist.

Texas-Based U-2 Crashes; Pilot Bails Out

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI)—A U-2 reconnaissance plane, the same type which the Russians claimed to have shot down over their country on a U. S. spy mission, crashed and burned in rugged southwest Texas hill country today, but the pilot parachuted to safety.

The plane was based at Laughlin Air Force Base here, where pilots are trained in its operation.

The base identified the pilot as Maj. Raleigh B. J. Meyers of Aulander, N. C.

First word of the crash came from a private pilot, John Carr of Crystal City, Tex., who spotted the smoke of the burning wreckage some 25 miles northwest of Uvalde.

Carr said he changed his course and flew towards the wreckage, then spotted the pilot and his chute still in the air. He watched the pilot land and safely get out of his chute pack.

Carr landed his plane at Bracketville, phoned Laughlin Air Force Base and told them what he had witnessed. The Air Force flew a helicopter to Bracketville, got directions from Carr on an aerial map and picked Meyers off a ridge.

PROJECTS

clude the office building, an Allied Grocers market, a specialty shop, variety store and several smaller stores.

No immediate action was taken on any of the three requests.

The Schoonmaker development was submitted as schematic plan to get the commission's feeling about it before anything more concrete would be submitted. It will go to a committee for study.

Action on the Allied Grocers and Heath Land Co. development, to be located on part of the land the city council has earmarked for the rapid transit district station, was postponed to the Aug. 10 meeting. Chairman Gilbert P. Murphy said a committee consisting of the interested parties plus members of the planning commission and city council, the city engineer and ex-city manager Donald A. Duerr would be invited to attend.

The Johnsen and Rischmuller project was called incomplete since a variance was needed for more than one building on a lot The matter was put over to Aug. 10.

The Schoonmaker development, according to Mrs. Ruth Sisson, commission secretary, is proposed to take in 26 acres, 13 on land and 13 filled underwater lots. Schoonmaker is attempting to buy adjoining land belonging to the Vincent W. Whitco Co., which would be the filled land part of the project.

On the schematic plan presented to the commission was shown that all industries belonging to Schoonmaker would be removed to prepare for the development if it is approved.

Preliminary financial commitments have already been attained, according to Harold L. Sleight, San Francisco architect for the development.

Two accesses are proposed, in the form of bridges over the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Kurt Heath of Mill Valley, speaking for Allied Grocers and Heath Land Co., told the commission the city would have to condemn the Rapid Transit District property to acquire it. He said the land may lie seven years with nothing happening.

"Rapid transit is very nebulous," Heath said in pushing for a use permit to biuld his shopping center across from the American Distilling Co. "If they ever come across the Golden Gate Bridge, it will be a long shot."

"I state adamantly they (the Rapid Transit District) have no right to the property and they are denying the property to anyone else."

Commissioner Robert E. McCabe said, "We can't say the city council is wrong in granting the Rapid Transit District the use of the land and give the land another use for you."

Commissioner Thomas Wiper said he felt professional assistance was needed in deciding the matter of developments in Marinship.

Chairman Murphy said the committee meeting was needed for three reasons: (1) to decide how to figure out the Marinship road system, which is "in a mess," (2) the problem of the city council having already approved Heath's site for the rapid transit station, and (3) the actual question of the proper use for the land.

He said he had received letters favoring and disapproving the Allied Grocers and Heath development. He said the rapid transit district had asked to see the proposed plans before a decision was made.

Heath said "industries are too expensive to operate in Sausalito, and Schoonmaker is changing over." He added that his property can get only $4,600 per year if it is used for industry but $90,000 in a shopping center.

Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. has asked California Public Utilities Commission to approve removal of its Sausalito spur track. Schoonmaker and others contend this would make major industry in Sausalito impossible.

T-Men Find Cache Of Untaxed Liquor

Adm. William L. Erdmann of Kentfield is in hot water with federal law enforcement officials over 50 cases of untaxed liquor.

Admiral Erdmann, 58, who retired March 31 at Guam as chief of Naval forces in the Mariannas, sent a 3,651-pound case, labeled "household effects," aboard the aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard to the Alamada Naval Air Station.

The crate was unloaded and carted to the admiral's new home at 13 Arroyo Drive, Kentfield.

On July 1, two Treasury agents and a Customs agent, armed with a search warrant, raided the admiral's two-story home. They found about 125 gallons of excellent Scotch, gin, Benedictine, Drambouie, cognac and bourbon without tax stamps, said Donald B. Constine, assistant U.S. attorney general.

Admiral Erdmann's liquor, brought into the U.S. without a customs declaration, was valued at $4,300. Customs agents said it probably cost him about $1,000 at the Navy post exchange on Guam.

The admiral's attorney, Richard J. MacLaury of Belvedere, said, "there was no intent on the admiral's part to violate the law. If there is any tax on liquor that may have been imported, the admiral want to pay it and will pay it."

Constine said the district attorney's office was not proceeding to file charges against Admiral Erdmann until the Navy Department has investigated. The crated liquor was loaded onto the aircraft carrier in Apra Harbor, Guam, three months before Erdmann's retirement.

"We want to see how widespread this is, not only with Admiral Erdmann but with other Navy personnel," Constine said.

Erdmann has had 40 years' naval service and draws retirement pay of $1,000 a month.

He was deputy commander of the Western Sea Frontier for 14 months before going to Guam. For three years, ending in 1948, he was chief of staff at Alameda Naval Air Station. He holds five combat medals for aviation war service and is a former deputy chief of staff for Atlantic Pact forces in Southern Europe.

Matzen Reports Campaign Costs

Campaign statements filed in Sonoma County show that Matzen, Democratic candidate for Marin - Sonoma assemblyman, received $4,578.50 in contributions and spent $4,507.76 in the June campaign. He gave no breakdown of the contributors. Another Democrat, Mrs. Helen Putnam, spent $518.

Sonoma Republican Leigh S. Shoemaker's campaign cost $1,589. He lost to Bagley of San Rafael.

Four Bicycles Stolen From Area Near Ross

COMICS BURN BUT IT ISN'T EVEN FUNNY

The Phantom, Li'l Abner and Beetle Bailey were all burned up in San Anselmo today.

There was nothing funny about it to Kenneth Wollman, distributor for the San Francisco Examiner. Wollman arrived at his newspaper storage shed on San Anselmo Avenue this morning to find stacks of Sunday comic sections—printed and delivered in advance—blazing merrily.

Wollman rushed to the fire station — just across the street—to report the blaze. Firemen promptly extinguished it. But the papers were destroyed, and a wooden platform and fence were scorched.

Dixie Trustees Move Toward Final Budget

Dixie School District's tax rate for 1960-61 is estimated at $3 per $100 assessed valuation, it was disclosed last night with school board approval of the operating budget.

A public hearing on the $939,387 budget is scheduled for Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. in the district office, 4775 Redwood Highway.

The $3 figure includes $2.45 for general operation, 11 cents for teachers' and other employees' retirement funds, 5 cents for community services, 13 cents for repayment of state bonds.

The new budget was approximately $200,000 more than last year's, due to increases in student enrollment.

E. E. Lenander was re-elected by the board for his third term as president, Walter J. Doll was named clerk, and Mrs. Dorothy Brown was chosen representative to the county committee on school district organization.

Regular meetings are set for second and fourth Wesdnesdays of each month at 8 p.m. at the district office. An exception will be next month when meetings will be held the first and fourth Wednesdays.

In other business last night, the trustees voted to accept a low bid submitted by A. J. Shooter, Inc., of San Francisco for a playing field watering system at Vallecito School.

An agreement with Zoellner Construction Co. of Ross was approved for replacement of a faulty beam in the Hoffman School multi-use room.

The board hired five new teachers for the fall term: Mrs. Janet Lockensgard, graduate of Montana State College, for second grade at Hoffman School; Mrs. Nancy Napoli of San Anselmo, University of California graduate, second grade at Santa Margarita School; Jacob Neiger of Terra Linda, former Mill Valley teacher, combined fourth and fifth grade class at Lucas Valley School; Sally Spear, former Belmont teacher, second grade at Santa Margarita School; Betty Stone, former Glendora teacher, kindergarten at Hoffman School.

The board also employed a teacher, three student helpers, and two part-time recreation directors for the summer session which is already well under way.

Nute Incorporating

J. Warren Nute, San Rafael engineer, is incorporating.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan today announced articles of incorporation have been filed for J. Warren Nute, Inc., civil and sanitary engineers, to be capitalized at $75,000 in $10 par shares.

Directors were listed as J. Warren Nute, Kathryn K. Nute, and Warren Edward Nute, all at 40 Rafael Drive, San Rafael.

State Park Has Corridor To Ocean

Tamalpais State Park has acquired a corridor to the sea through purchase of 204 acres of steep ravine property from the William Kent Estate Co.

This latest move by the State Division of Beaches and Parks adds a scenic area described by park supervisor George E. Holmboe today as stretching west of the present park boundaries to reach the ocean just south of and adjoining Stinson Beach State Park.

PICNIC SITE

"The sea part is a rocky headland which seems an area suitable for development of picnic and camp sites," Holmboe said. "It is known to oldtimers as the 'Warm Springs' area because at low tide, warm water wells up from sand where Webb Creek enters the ocean."

Some 11,000 feet of new beach frontage is involved in the deal, announced in Sacramento. Cost of the land was reported at $200,000.

William Kent Jr., president of the estate company, said the property had been held back until the state was able to buy it for recreational purposes.

ACQUISITION PROGRAM

This sale is an important part of an acquisition program for which the legislature appropriated 1.1 million dollars to enlarge the park.

Acquired for $310 in May was a 400-acre part of the old Dias ranch lying east of Muir Woods across Panoramic Highway.

4-Car Wreck On Gate Span Halts Traffic

A four-car chain collision on the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday brought a traffic tie-up north on Highway 101 which indirectly caused a two-car smash near Marin City.

Total toll was three persons hurt and four traffic citations. All traffic involved was southbound.

The first mishap caused a sedan driven by Charles John Robba of 121 Ryan Street, Mill Valley, to be hit twice, both times by a car driven by Martin Roy Huff of 49 Cascade Drive, Mill Valley.

CAR HALTED

Robba had halted because of a tie-up at the toll plaza around 7:30 a.m. and Huff ran into him, then struck again when Huff's car had been hit from behind by one driven by Matthew Hall of House 505, Marin City.

Hall's car in turn was hit from the rear by one driven by Clifton Le Roy Perry of San Francisco. Perry was treated at Park Emergency Hospital for cuts of the cheek and nose.

California Highway Patrol officers cited Hall and Perry for speeding.

TRAFFIC BUILDUP

Meanwhile halted traffic built up over the grade behind to a point a quarter-mile north of Marin City, where Joan Roselee Ferrari of 20 Council Crest, Corte Madera, was driving a sports car south at 8:15 a.m.

As she stopped for the traffic backup, her car was hit from the rear by one driven by Paul Eugene Chevrier of Oakville, Conn. His wife Lorraine and their 12-year-old daughter Linda suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Chevrier was cited for speeding. Miss Ferrari got a citation for driving with a license that expired July 3.

Sausalito Planners Get Sunshine Plea

The building of a carport by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arden of 617 Locust Road, Sausalito, threatens to take away the neighbors' sunshine, the Sausalito Planning Commission was told last night.

Complaints were voiced when a request for a variance to build the carport came before the commissioners. After discussion, the matter was referred back to the variance committee for further investigation.

Mrs. Frank Faustine, who owns a house next to the Ardens but lives at 239 D Street, San Rafael, said the Ardens' duplex has "cut out all the sunlight" to her two apartments. By adding a carport, she said, "it will cut out sunlight to the kitchen and back yard." She also lamented that Arden, a Sausalito fireman, had put up a picket fence and nailed it to her house.

The Sidney Detels, neighbors at 610 Locust Road, were represented by their attorney, who said, "this is a situation where if you let the camel put his head in the tent, pretty soon you have the whole camel in."

He said the duplex now blocks three out of four of the Detel's windows. The carport will block off the other window.

Mrs. Arden said the carport would not take any view as it is open to the side. As to the fence, she said, it was a chicken wire before the Ardens came a year ago.

The commission also:

1. Elected Robert E. McCabe as vice chairman, replacing Gilbert P. Murphy, who was made chairman recently.
2. Continued to Aug. 10 a request for use permit, variance and lot splits for Bruce Bernhard to build garden apartments in Woodward Valley near Rodeo Avenue.
3. Granted Rob Rose a lot split, variance and use permit to build a 14-unit apartment on El Portal Street, with certain conditions regarding height of building and provision for one and one-half off-street parking spaces per dwelling unit, and approved a tentative map for recommendation to council to allow Rose to subdivide at Toyon Terraces No. 2.
4. Confirmed committee approval granting Franklin L. Anderson permission to put in a nursery on Bridgeway near Spring Street.
5. Approved a use permit for Sally Hettrich to allow the sale of antiques and bric-a-brac at the Pilot House, 545 Bridgeway, but denied her the right to use the premises as a residence.
6. Continued to next meeting a request for a lot split by Sol Langsam of Langsam Realty and referred it to the city council for recommendation. Lots are in Edwards tract and considered by the city council to be in a "critical area" since there is not enough water pressure for firefighting.

REED, LARKSPUR DISTRICTS

Trustees May Meet On Pupil Problem

An invitation to a joint meeting of Larkspur and Reed School district trustees was extended the Reed district superintendent yesterday by Larkspur Supt. Vaughn D. Seidel.

The proposed meeting would be devoted to the problem of about 70 Reed district children living in Marin Estates who, the Larkspur trustees fear, may come knocking at the door of the Larkspur district's new school on Paradise Drive when it is completed in the fall of 1961.

Inasmuch as the youngsters live inside the Reed district boundaries, they must pass the front door of the school across the street from their homes and travel about four miles to the Reed School.

Larkspur trustees fear the avalanche of 70 irate parents seeking admission for their children in the more convenient school.

"The board feels this situation should be ironed out before it happens," Seidel said.

Also under discussion by the Larkspur board is a proposal that teams of twin cities pupils don uniforms and act as traffic patrolmen at entrances to the three district schools. The children would direct traffic only at noon and at school closing hours.

The proposal was made after a report to the trustees by Larkspur and Corte Madera police chiefs, Howard Clark and Frank Nelson, respectively, that neither city would be able to furnish officers for the task.

If approved by the board, the youngsters would be trained by a representative of the California State Automobile Assn. It was also proposed that parent-teacher associations and service clubs in the district be asked to contribute toward equipment for the young patrolmen. The equipment, which includes belt, hat, sweater and rain gear, costs about $80 per team of five.

In other action Tuesday night, the trustees:

1. Set July 26 as the date for possible adoption of a contract covering non-teaching employees.
2. Named a committee made up of Seidel and trustees M. K. Taylor and Mrs. Pauline Secor to visit schools in the San Jose, Novato and Fairfax school districts on Saturday. The committee would view other schools designed by architect John Lyon Reid, who designed the proposed fourth school in the Larkspur district, with an eye toward possible additions to the new school.

N.L. Prestige At All-Time High In Sweep Over A.L.

NEW YORK (UPI)—National League prestige stood at an all-time peak today as a result of the blend of pitching and power that produced a sweep of both this year's All-Star games. "The pendulum has swung all the way," said a jubilant N.L. President Warren Giles after yesterday's 6-0 triumph over the American League. "The victory and the way it was achieved demonstrate the overall strength of our league.

"It's a long way from the early years of the games when the American League dominated things," he continued. "And, we think it is a very healthy thing for baseball."

The triumph, coming after Monday's 5-3 win in Kansas City, gave the National League three victories in the last four all-star games and nine in the last 13. And, not to be overlooked, was the Dodgers' World Series victory over the Chicago White Sox last autumn that keeps intact the string of N.L. successes.

"There's not that much difference between the leagues," said A. L. Manager Al Lopez, by way of upholding his circuit's prestige. "We just were cold and they were hot. Some of the fellows we expected to hit for us simply didn't."

Chief among these was Roger Maris, whose 27 home runs had done so much during the first half of the American League season to lift the Yankees into the league lead. Maris didn't make a hit in either game and was retired twice yesterday with the bases filled and two out, thus killing off the Americans' best chances.

MARIS A FLOP

Maris popped up in front of the plate with the bases filled and two out in the third inning and flied weakly to Willie Mays in centerfield with the bases loaded and two out in the seventh.

"We don't know more about pitching to Maris than anybody else does," said National League Manager Walt Alston. "We just have good pitchers."

The Nationals rode to victory on the wings of home runs by Eddie Mathews, Willie Mays, Stan Musial and Ken Boyer, but Alston was proudest of his pitching which produced only the third shutout in the 29-game history of All-Star classics.

"You really accomplish something when you shut out an All-Star squad," said Alston, "because they've got so many good hitters."

Mays, who emerged as the 1960 star of stars by smashing out three hits in each game, Mathews, Musial and Boyer simply were too much for the American League's pitchers. Mathews connected first, with one aboard in the second inning, to give the Nations a 2-0 lead against Whitey Ford and Mays followed with his homer in the third.

SENTIMENTAL SHOT

Musial struck his sentimental shot as a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning and Boyer connected for a two-run blow into the left field seats to ice matters in the ninth.

A disappointingly small crowd of 38,362 for the first All-Star game played at Yankee Stadium since 1939 appeared to enjoy the rival managers' strategy of using virtually every player on the squads, but reserved their greatest cheers for Musial and Ted Williams, the two grand old pros of the game.

They rocked the rafters with a standing ovation when Musial hit his pinch homer in the seventh and gave Williams a tremendous cheer when he singled as a pinch hitter in the Americans' seventh.

Musial now holds All-Star game records of 19 games played, six homers, 39 total bases and 57 at bats and shares the mark of 11 runs scored with Mays.

PITCHERS WILD

Several of the National League pitchers, notably Johnny Podres and Stan Williams of the Dodgers, had trouble with their control, but Alston said he never was worried.

"I went to the mound when Podres filled the bases with Maris coming up in the third inning to find out if his back was bothering him," Alston said.

"I was surprised when he told me he was nervous and I told him, 'Hell, you've pitched in World Series games, what have you got to be nervous about?' But once he told me he was physically okay, I knew all I wanted to know."

And once past that jam, the Nationals were home free as Podres, Stan Williams, Larry Jackson, Bill Henry and Lindy McDaniel completed the job begun so ably by Vern Law.

Musial Got Big Kick Out Of HR

NEW YORK (AP)—At 39, Stan Musial acknowledged today that he couldn't keep going forever.

"When you hit a home run in an All-Star game, it makes you feel a lot younger than you are," he said. He added he's not thinking in terms of quitting.

Musial grinned as he thought of the seventh inning of yesterday's game when he blasted a homer to help the National League defeat the American League 6-0 in the baseball classic.

"When I went past Solly Hemus (third base coach) I said to him: 'I kinda liked that.'"

Musial now has played in 19 All-Star games and holds a fistfull of records. He has hit more home runs than anyone (6), hit for more total bases (39) and has the most at-bats (57).

"Nineteen All-Star games," Musial mused. "Imagine that. I don't think some of those kids on the team were 19 years old (they all were over 19).

"But I've still got my enthusiasm and that counts a lot."

Dragsters Race At Cotati Sunday

Another of northern California's top drag racing events of the season is scheduled for Sunday at Cotati Raceway.

Among those competing for a total of $600 awards with 60 trophies given in the various classes will be: "Gotelli-Champion Speed Shop Special" going for 180 mph, driven by South San Francisco's Jim McLennan; Doug Noren driving the DeSoto sling-shot dragster of Allrad, Belknap and Noren of San Rafael, who last week at Half Moon Bay Drag Strip set a "C" Class dragster record when they churned 142 miles an hour. Also appearing will be many of northern California's top competition cars.

Time trials start at 8 a.m., eliminations begin at 1:30 p.m. Spectator privileges in the dust-free pit are available to the public.

Nationals Just Not That Good—Williams

NEW YORK (AP)—National League 5, American League 3; National League 6, American League 0.

The 1960 All-Star games are over and the N.L. won 'em both. Is the National really that much better than the A.L.?

"Hell no!" said Ted Williams as he dressed after yesterday's shutout defeat in Yankee Stadium.

"Those guys just aren't that good. I mean they are not that much better than us that they should take both games," said the Boston Red Sox' Big Guy. Then he laughed.

"Hell, I guess they were saying the same thing 20 years ago, when we were racking them up."

Al Lopez, Chicago White Sox manager who skippered the A.L. All-Stars, said he couldn't see a great change between the Nationals of today and the Nationals of yesteryear, when he was N.L. All-Star catcher.

"They had a few sluggers then, too," he said. "But if there is a change, I'd say the American League has gone more for pitching lately and the National has gone more for sluggers.

"And our hitting just wasn't as good as their's in these two games."

If you had to pick out just two of the N.L. sluggers, you'd have to go with Willie Mays and Stan Musial.

Mays, the San Francisco Giants brilliant center fielder, whipped A.L. pitchers for six hits in the two games—his second All-Star homer, a triple, a double and three singles.

Musial, the old guy of the St. Louis Cardinals, beat out an infield hit and swatted his sixth All-Star home run in two pinch-hit appearances while playing his 18th and 19th games, a record.

Musial, at 39, put one of Gerry Staley's pitches deep in the third deck at Yankee Stadium, just inside the foul pole. "And I really wasn't trying to hit one," he said.

"The way I've been hitting lately, I just swing for base hits."

"It must have made him quite happy," said Williams, tongue in cheek.

As for his own pinch hit single in yesterday's game, Williams said, "There wasn't much on the pitch (by Larry Jackson) and I didn't get much on it, either."

Essig Favored In Publinx; Dixon Out

HONOLULU (AP)—Don Essig III of Indianapolis, the 1957 champion, was favored today to win the 35th annual Public Links golf Tournament.

Essig was one of the eight remaining players who managed to break 150 in qualifying.

Tom Dixon of Daly City, an employee of United Markets in San Rafael, was eliminated yesterday morning in the first round. Dixon, who was high among qualifiers with a 36-hole total of 148, bowed to Hung Soo Ahn of Honolulu by a 2 and 1 count.

Two of the three medalists—Owen Douglass Jr. of Honolulu and Richard Hopwood of Phoenix, Ariz.—also were eliminated yesterday.

If Essig can win again he will become the first double winner since 1933. Charles Ferrera of San Francisco won in 1931 and 1933. Carl Kauffmann of Pittsburgh put together a three-title string in 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Essig, a Louisiana State student, played like a pro yesterday as he advanced to the third round with a pair of convincing victories.

In the morning he staved off a rally in the middle of the back nine by Tom Jenkins, Jacksonville, Fla., and won the match, 2 and 1. Essig held a 3-up lead at the turn, but Jenkins tied it at the 15th. Essig was equal to the pressure, shooting a par on the 16th and ending the match on the 17th with a birdie three.

In the afternoon he beat Ray Borseth, Minnesota, 4 and 3. Essig was ahead by only one hole at the 12th but he chipped in for an eagle three on the par five 13th, birdied the 14th and the 15th and the match was over.

In today's third round Essig, figured qualifying scores, faced his toughest test against Felix Clavern, Stockton, Calif., who qualified with a 147, one stroke behind the co-medalists, Harlan Stevenson, Long Beach, Calif., Douglass and Hopwood.

Stevenson, the only medalist remaining in competition, is in the same bracket with Essig.

Stevenson knocked out Elmer Clites, Antioch, Calif., 3 and 2, and Edward Gladysz, Brookfield, Ohio, 5 and 3. Today he went against Mike Andoian, Pontiac, Mich., school teacher who led the first round qualifying with a 72.

Sheehan Confident His Charges Will Bounce Back Into The Race

HANLEY

Tom Sheehan, back from the All-Star games, is confident the Giants will get back in the thick of the N.L. pennant race "if they hustle."

"You know why the Pirates are on top?" he asked. "It's because they hustle besides playing good ball. They hustle all the time. That's what I'm trying to impress on my boys. You gotta hustle. You gotta hustle in anything to get anywhere."

The 66-year-old skipper of the Giants thinks his newly inherited club is better than Pittsburgh.

"Once we get rolling," he said, slapping his knee, "we'll prove this to the Pirates, the Braves and the Dodgers, all in front of us now.

"THERE'S STILL time to catch up. I felt at the outset of the season that the Braves were the teams to beat. They still are but now it would be foolhardy to insist they are the only team to beat when the Pirates are on top.

"The Braves knocked us off in the last series because we gave most of the games away through errors. But they still have a pair of great hitters in Aaron and Mathews, and pitchers that will get better as the race progresses.

"The Pirates look like the more solid club defensively at every place except first base. I wish I could say as much for my team the way we kicked the ball around in the first half of the season. Maybe we're ready to settle down now. We have to if we expect to win."

Getting back on the hustle theme, Sheehan singled out Pittsburgh's Dick Groat and Don Hoak as the leaders in the Pirate hustle department. He referred to them, not by name, but as "that shortstop" and "that third baseman."

"That shortstop and that third baseman are always fighting you," he said. "They fight you every inch of the way. They're what you call real competitors.

"I'VE WATCHED them from the grandstand and from the dugout. They're in the ball game from start to finish. That's the kind of ballplayers I like."

Sheehan, rising to his full 6 feet 3 inches, then slapped his thigh a resounding crack and said:

"We just got to out-hustle them to win it. Certainly we have ball players every bit as good and better than the Pirates. Take our fellow in right, for example, (Willie Kirkland). There isn't anything he doesn't do exceptionally well. He might have finished the first half in a little slump but I feel confident he will begin booming the ball again. The same goes for that Baby Bull (Orlando Cepeda). He's due to break out with some big smashes. Our fellow in center (Willie Mays) is headed for one of his best seasons—all he needs is a little help.

"The same goes for our pitchers — they completed half of their games during the first two months and then tailed off. If they turn in the same fine jobs for the first two months of the second half we'll be right back up there in the thick of it.

"Don't count us out before the second half starts."

NO SPECIALISTS, SO...

'Toe' Gets 'Thumb' From Raider 11

"The Toe" got "The Thumb" yesterday.

That is, Gordon Tovani of Kentfield, Marin County's well-known bare-footed place-kicker, was released by the Oaklaind Raiders club of the new professional American Football League. The announcement was made by Head Coach Eddie Erdelatz from the club's training camp in Santa Cruz. Erdelatz explained: "Tovani is a specialist who can do nothing but kick, and we have no room for specialists."

Tovani, a 33-year-old salesman, hasn't played a game of football in several years. When he reported for the initial training session Monday he was bare-footed and eager to display his talents. However, Erdelatz told him to put shoes on, explained his "no specialist" policy, and assigned Tovani to an end position.

In the workouts that followed it was apparent Tovani had not played the sport in several years. He and 13 others were the first to be cut from the squad yesterday. Erdelatz planned to release about 20 more candidates by the end of the week.

KICKING EXPLOITS

Tovani was offered a contract by the Raiders off his widely-publicized kicking exploits which included kicking 100 consecutive field goals from the 10-yard line, kicking a ball 70 yards over the archway leading into Reno, etc.

Meanwhile, a rash of injuries forced Erdelatz to shorten yesterday's practice session, with the comment, "We've been working them — but I guess some aren't in shape."

Five players were forced to leave the practice field.

Tackle James Woodard twisted an already-injured knee and Trainer George Anderson said the 6-foot, 5-inch, 235-pounder may be through for the season.

Former Stanford end Irv Nikolai and Clord Boyette of Texas Southern suffered twisted ankles; quarterback Tom Flores of College of Pacific pulled a groin muscle; and guard Charlie Kaaihue of San Jose State reinjured an ankle.

RAIDER BACKS—Here is a possible backfield unit for the Oakland Raiders after a few davs of practice. From left, Eddie Macon, Dean Philpott, Wayne Crow and Paul Larson. Crow and Larson formerly starred for California while Macon comes from College of Pacific and Philpott from Fresno State. Macon and Larson have had previous experience in professional leagues.

Former UCLA Ace Loudd May Be L.A. Linebacker

ORANGE (AP)—Former UCLA end Rommie Loudd may wind up as a linebacker with the Los Angeles Chargers.

Loudd was a pretty fair pass catcher with the Bruins, but he saw linebacking service in Candien football with the Vancouver Lions. He is fast, weighs 220 pounds and stands 6-3.

He has competition. There also are Riley Morris of Florida A&M, middle linebacker; Ron Botchan of Occidental; Pete Mazzucchi of Cal Poly, left linebacker; Hubert Bobo of Ohio State; Duane Leopard of Louisiana State; Ben Preston of Auburn and Charlie Vrueckman of Pittsburgh.

The Charges open with an exhibition game against the New York Titans in Los Angeles Aug. 6.

Bums Can Catch Pirates, If . . . Claims Bragan

LOS ANGLES (AP)—Dodger Coach Bobby Bragan, overseeing a Los Angeles workout while Manager Walt Alston was masterminding the National All-Stars to victory, says the world champions can catch Pittsburgh.

Bragan, who once managed the Pirates, says Los Angeles will have to have help to overhaul the front running Pittsburgh club, but—

"We have 10 games left with the Pirates. A lot depends on how we do against them, but we're eight games behind them and the other clubs will have to do 'em in, too, to really help.

"For instance, if we took seven of those 10 games we'd only gain four games on Pittsburgh, so that will give you an idea what we're up against."

Bragan says the comeback of the Dodgers from second division to a contender is due to Stan Williams' pitching, Norm Larker's hitting, the consistency of Jim Gilliam, and, most of all, the clubbing of rookie Frank Howard.

"But if we hadn't called up Howard we'd be floundering," says Bragan.

The Pirates, Bragan says, helped themselves in the trade with Cincinnati that brought them Smoky Burgess, Don Hoak and Harvey Haddix.

The Dodgers go to San Francisco for a three-game series opening tomorrow night against the Giants.

Fry To Scout For Oakland Raiders

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—Wes Fry, former assistant coach under Lynn Waldorf at the University of California, was named director of player personnel yesterday for the Oakland Raiders of the new American Football League.

Fry, who has been in business since retiring as a coach, will scout college players for future signing by the Oakland professional club.

Waldorf now holds a similar position for the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

Bucs, Braves Battle Tonight In 'Makeup'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harvey Haddix, the little Pittsburgh left-hander who pitched 12 perfect innings and still couldn't beat Milwaukee a year ago, opens the second half of the 1960 season tonight shooting for his fifth victory in a row against the Braves.

Milwaukee, five games behind the front-running Pirates in the National League, counters with its ace lefty, Warren Spahn, a fellow who used to beat the Pirates as regularly as the Braves once beat Haddix.

The game at Pittsburgh is the only one scheduled for the day after the second All-Star game in New York. The majors' three-day respite started Monday when the National League beat the American 5-3 in the first 1960 All-Star game in Kansas City. Then the Nationals made it a sweep with a 6-0 followup yesterday.

Tonight's game is a makeup. Tomorrow Cincinnati invades Pittsburgh, Milwaukee goes to Philadelphia, Chicago is at St. Louis, and Los Angeles, the hottest team in the N. L., is at San Francisco.

In the American League, action resumes tomorrow with New York, in front by 2½ games, at Detroit; Washington at second-place Cleveland, Baltimore at Chicago, and Boston at Kansas City.

On May 26, 1959, Haddix pitched the unprecedented 12 perfect innings against the Braves, then lost in the thirteenth on one hit.

That setback was one of seven straight he was handed by Milwaukee during 1958-59. But 1960 has been a different story.

The Pirates hold a 9-3 edge over the Braves in the season's series. Haddix has four of those victories, and Milwaukee hasn't beaten him this season.

Harvey has defeated Spahn twice, and the Braves' southpaw, who went 5-0 against Pittsburgh last year, didn't stop the Pirates until July 4, with three innings of hitless relief for a 7-6 10-inning victory.

That was the first game of a double-header and at that point the Pirates had won only two of their nine previous games. But along came Haddix in the nightcap with a six-hitter good for a 7-2 victory that righted the Pirates.

It was Harvey's first complete game against the Braves in 14 tries since Sept. 14, 1956.

Haddix has a 6-4 season record. Spahn is 8-6. But reverse Haddix's 4-0 against the Braves and Spahn's 1-2 against the Pirates, and Milwaukee would be the team that's out in front by five games.

Vancouver, Padres Win In PCL Tilts

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vancouver edged Seattle 6-5 and San Diego downed second-place Sacramento 5-1 in a curtailed Pacific Coast League schedule last night.

At Sacramento, slugger Stan Johnson and veteran pitcher Ben Wade combined talents for the San Diego win. Wade limited the Solons to only five safeties and allowed only one extra base hit—a home run to J. W. Porter in the first inning. Johnson got two run-producing singles and a home run in the eighth inning. The Padres clinched the victory in the sixth with a walk, two singles, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly that brought in three runs.

FRESNO (AP) — Fresno State College's new basketball coach will be announced next week, Athletic Director Hal Beatty said today.

Beatty would not release names of the coaches under consideration.

CAN WILLIE DO THE SAME FOR GIANTS?

SAN FRANCISCO — Giant fans had their fingers crossed today, hoping Willie Mays can keep hitting the way he did in the two All-Star games.

Willie, top hitter in the major leagues this year, showed why with three hits in each of the All-Star games.

The question, though, is whether Willie, a streak hitter, will still be swinging the hot bat tomorrow night when the Giants meet the Los Angeles Dodgers at Candlestick Park.

If he's still hot, he might get the Giants off and running in the second half of the pennant chase all by himself. If he's not . . .

One encouraging thought: Dodger Manager Walt Alston, who managed the National League All-Stars, couldn't have learned how to get Mays out by watching the American League pitchers.

Don Larsen Hurls Three-Hitter In Return To Minors

Don Larsen, the ex-Yankee who pitched the only perfect game in World Series history, began his march back to the major leagues last night with a three-hit, 6-3, win over Indianapolis.

Larsen, sent down fror Kansas City to the Dallas-Fort Worth Rangers last Friday, was making his first start in a Ranger uniform and his teammates greeted him by smacking four home runs to drive in all six runs.

"I'm not too tired," Larsen said after the game. "I certainly hope I can pitch my way back up there, but you got to win down here to do it."

Larsen was aided by two homers by Jim Delsing and roundtrippers by Ted Kanzanski and Tony Frulio. One of the Indians' three hits was a home run by Jim Woods.

Today's Report: Beach Bass Are A Bit Backward About Biting

STEVENS

We might subtitle our first paragraph today, "Beach Bass Backward About Biting."

According to information at hand, such is the case. Chief Game Warden Al Giddings called us Monday night to report 30 surfcasters at Fort Cronkhite beaching a total of two bass, one five-pounder and one of seven pounds.

Well, that's normal for surf casting. Hot one day and cold the next. By the time this article is read, could be a big run is on.

Giddings relayed some interesting information anent halibut off the mouth of Tomales Bay. Four of the big flatties were taken, each running between 30 and 35 pounds. We gathered from the report that the halibut were landed while fishing with orthodox salmon trolling gear. (Dragging the weight along the bottom with a heavy sinker is the usual modus operandi for halibut.)

The salmon were not plentiful; only six of them landed since July 1. But one of them was a beauty of 42 pounds hauled in by a youthful lady of 75 years of age.

Giddings also mentioned that abalone hunters out of Dillon's Beach made the grade with a preponderance of limits. Skin divers reduced the Sea Ear population by 36 off Tomales and took 46 at Bodega Bay.

GIDDINGS ASKED us to again mention the fact that giant clams as well as Washington clams are off the legal list at present. Seems that, while the Tomales area was free from violations, several arrests were made in the Bodega region.

Seems that a bunch of the native had beaucoup fun, sport and amusement hooking and landing barely legal sized stripers in the Black Point sector. And from that area comes word of a number of fish bearing wounds.

Wardens have explained that very likely the small round holes appearing in the sides of some of the bass are caused by lampreys in the upstream waters. Whether from the pesty eels or from a parasite that very often bores itself into the flesh of a striped bass, such open wounds or healed scars do not affect the edibility of the fish.

In the case of a wound from a lamprey, the wound is all that appears; in the instance of the parasite, you may find, when cleaning such a fish, a small hard substance imbedded deep in the flesh—at times on the inside lining of the stomach. Have no hesitation in keeping and eating such fish.

ONE OF THE largest catches of the season was made by fish and game wardens in the Napa River and the Delta areas over the recent long weekend holiday. They caught over 50 law violators, over half of them with undersized bass. In one instance, our bonny protectors of our fish and game interrupted a barbecue where a mess of baby bass were sizzling on the griddle. The food was literally taken right out of the culprits' mouths.

The price of fresh venison can be exorbitant. We're sure a certain ranchhand from Arbuckle will vouch for that. He paid a total of $700 for possessing parts of a deer, spotlighting, and taking deer out of season with a .22 rifle.

Yea, verily, crime doesn't pay.

Even the intent to commit a crime can be expensive. A lightly intoxicated man in Williams announced to the police he was hunting his wife whom he was going to shoot when he found her. He was fined 50 bucks for having a loaded shotgun in his car.

And with that tragic note, we sign off for the nonce, but will see you manana.

Liston Prepares 'Sleep Potion' For Zora Folley

DENVER (AP)—Sonny Liston says his sleep potion is prepared for Zora Folley who's scheduled to fight the Philadelphia knockout artist for 12 rounds Monday night in the Denver Coliseum.

"Folley talks about going 12 rounds," Liston scoffed at a training session yesterday. "I'll see that he don't go 12 rounds—I'll give him the sleep potion."

The slumber drug is a knockout punch embraced in Liston's 14½ inch left fist. The potion, usually applied with a left hook, has sent to dreamland 20 of Liston's opponents in 30 bouts. He's lost only one.

Folley, a slick boxer from Chandler, Ariz., says little about the approaching bout that may give the winner a title shot at heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson. Liston is rated No. 1 and Folley No. 2 in the latest Ring magazine.

"I never look at the record book," Folley said of Liston's impressive knockout performance. "I just fight my fight when I get in the ring."

Ingemar Says He'll Train Differently

BY JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Young Bill Fugazy, brand new president of Feature Sports, Inc., disclosed today that Ingemar Johansson, well known Swedish playboy, will become a semi-hermit while training for his next fight with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Dapper, dark-haired Fugazy—who was elevated to the FSI presidency Tuesday—made the Johansson disclosure just before flying to the West for an investigation of possible sites for the fight.

Since dimpled Ingemar lost the heavyweight crown to Patterson on a fifth-round knockout, June 20, the reports have been increasing that his training "left much to be desired," prexy Bill said.

"Ingemar telephoned me from Copenhagen, Denmark, yesterday," he continued. "And he said he would not train at any resort hotel this time. Instead, he will have his own trailer camp in the mountains—made up of seven or eight trailers for sparring partners, trainers, a cook and other members of the entourage."

Fugazy, the 35-year-old travel-bureau tycoon who owns 50 per cent of the stock in Feature Sports, said Johansson is taking a page from the spartan book of Patterson this time. Patterson trained in semi-hermit seclusion for their second fight in June, Bill stressed, to make certain that the Swede would not repeat his knockout victory of 1959.

"Over the phone Ingemar assured me yesterday he would not retire if he won back the title in November," he emphasized. "That was the main reason he called me, to deny stories that said he would retire after the fight. He also wanted to know if we had a date or site yet."

SAM SNEAD TO HOST GOLF SHOW

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sammy Snead plans to star in a celebrity golf television series, featuring top figures in the entertainment world, which will make its debut this fall.

To be carried each Sunday on the NBC television network, the shows will be taped for weekly releases. Sneed will act as permanent host. The first show features narration by Bob Hope.

Jerry Lewis and Ernie Ford are among the celebrities who will appear in the series.

Egypt hit a wave of prosperity during the American Civil War because of increased demand for Egyptian cotton.

FISH SCALES

Joseph Harper of San Rafael places striped bass on scale at Marin Rod and Gun Club Pier where he caught the beauty last Friday. The fish weighed six and one-half pounds. Construction work at the pier apparently didn't bother the fishing. Harper will attest.

DeVicenzo Snares French Open; Indian Steals Show

PARIS (AP)—Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City is the new French Open golf champion, but the talk of European fairways is a cooper-skinned Indian from South Africa with the romantic name of Sewsunker Sewgolum.

Every professional pales when they see Sewsunker strike a ball.

He uses the cross-handed grip, hitting right-handed but with his left below his right on the club shaft. He makes no pretense at proper stance and standard swing.

He winds up and lets 'er rip—and she rips pretty good.

He shot rounds of 69-72-74-72 for 287 in the French Open at St. Cloud Golf Club. This was well enough to put him high among the leaders, although the title was won by De Vicenzo with 275 for 72 holes.

The Argentine-born pro from Mexico City put on a powerful closing burst, shooting 65, in the final round for a three-stroke victory over Bill Johnston of Provo, Utah, and Leopoldo Ruiz of Argentina, who tied for second at 278.

Sewgolum, amazingly, was in contention until the final round.

"I believe a man should swing a club the best way he knows how," says Sewsunker. "I've never had a lesson. I started swinging this way. It's comfortable, so I keep it."

Filipino Says He'll Stop Japanese Foe

MANILA (UPI)—World ranked Filipino flyweight Dommy Ursua, confident of winning by a knockout, has started training for his July 30 non-title 10 round bout with Japan's Sadao Yaoita.

Ursua, ranked No. 6 world flyweight contender by Ring Magazine, said "I can knock out any flyweight in the world and that includes Yaoita."

The Japanese is ranked No. 2 flyweight contender above Ursua and is also Orient titleholder in the flyweight division.

Ursua returned to Manila last week after campaigning for several months in the U. S. In his last fight there he scored a seventh round knockout of Mexico's Matio de Leon, another world-ranked flyweight.

Filipino promoter Rafael Escueta said that should Ursua beat Yaoita impressively, he would go to work for a bout between the Filipino and Thailand's world flyweight titleholder Pone Kingpetch.

L. A. Sportscaster Mark Scott Dies

BURBANK (AP)—Former radio sportscaster Mark Scott, 45, died of a heart attack at his home yesterday.

For several years Scott broadcast the baseball games of the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League. In recent years, Scott had been an actor, appearing in the "Dragnet" series, in "Four Star Theater," and "Lineup" on television. In movies, he had appeared in "The Dizzy Dean Story," "The Harder They Fall," and "Rescue At Sea."

Scott's widow, Dorothy; a daughter, Mary Jane, and a son, Douglas Henry, survive.

Birmingham, Ala., policeman F. R. Studdard has seen cars parked in lots of odd positions, but nothing quite like this one which he found abandoned on a utility pole yesterday. Investigation disclosed that the car had skidded on a curve and run up a guy wire. Witnesses said a teen-age boy then jumped from the car and fled. (AP Wirephoto)

Nine School Districts Receive Federal Funds

Nine Marin County school districts received U.S. Treasury checks totaling $173,260 this week as their first payments toward 1960 federal aid to districts with "federally affected" pupils.

Under the 10-year-old program federal tax funds are allocated to local schools to help pay their operating costs if these costs are increased because of nearby federal activities.

The nine districts who received checks, amounts received and their estimated total entitlement for the year are:

Fairfax School District, $3,775, $5,034; San Anselmo School District, $6,432, $8,577; Mill Valley School District, $17,899, $23,866; Larkspur School District, $12,585, $16,781; Sausalito School District, $35,310, $47,081; Reed Union School District, $5,943, $7,924; San Rafael High School District, $49,590, $66,120; Dixie School District, $24,945, $33,261; San Rafael Elementary School District, $16,781, $22,375.

The exact amounts received will be based on actual attendance of the "federally affected" pupils.

Three other Marin school districts received payments earlier this year. These districts, their first payments and estimated total entitlements are: Novato Unified School District, $75,156; $100,209; San Jose School District, $166,242; $174,992, and Tamalpais School District, $44,463; $59,285.

In all, the 12 districts will receive more than $565,500 this year under this program.

SAN RAFAEL GARDENS

Building Starts On 15-Acre Marin Apartment Complex

Construction has started on San Rafael Gardens, a 160-unit cooperative apartment development on a 15-acre site off Manuel T. Freitas Parkway in San Rafael.

A ground-breaking ceremony climaxed more than a year of preparations, completed last week with the closing of an FHA insured mortgage loan for $2,793,600 for construction of the project.

The project is sponsored by the Foundation for Cooperative Housing, an organization established 10 years ago to encourage development of cooperative communities throughout the United States.

"More than 6,000 units of cooperative housing have been successfully occupied by members in 20 projects already completed under foundation auspices," said Roger Wilcox of Washington, D.C., director of the FCH, here for the groundbreaking ceremonies.

Based on the commitment issued by the Federal Housing Administration, it is estimated that the monthly carrying charges, including utilities, in San Rafael Gardens will range from $90 a month for a four-room, one-bedroom terrace apartment to $160 a month for a seven and one-half room, three-bedroom apartment with patio.

Typical down payments will be approximately $750 per dwelling with no closing costs.

The dwelling at San Rafael Gardens have private entrances, landscaping and patios. The development includes community facilities and a swimming pool for use by its members. Schools, churches, shopping facilities are all conveniently nearby.

Foundation trustees have announced sales will not be started until construction work on the project gets under way. The sales office will be located on the site. San Rafael Gardens has set up an office at 115 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, where inquiries are being received.

Each subscriber buys shares of stock in the cooperative corporation which will own and operate the development, and each member is entitled to one vote in the affairs of the corporation. After the cooperative acquires title its members elect a resident board of directors who, in turn, appoint and supervise the day-to-day management.

Plans were prepared by Ned H. Abrams and Associates. Building contractor is T and L Construction Co., a joint venture including Stolte Construction Co. of Oakland, and Calvin Wheeler and Associates of San Rafael.

FALCON OWNERS SAY THE NICEST THINGS!

In a recent Popular Mechanics magazine survey of 1,000 Falcon owners, the Falcon scored the highest owner approval of any American car in the history of the magazine's new car surveys

Falcon is America's lowest-priced* 6-passenger sedan and wagon

In the April 1960 issue, Popular Mechanics reports on its Falcon owner survey: "Falcon owners love it! They like its simplicity. They like its economy. These owners have driven their Falcons through all kinds of weather, terrain and traffic. Result: wholesale approval!"

HERE'S WHAT FALCON OWNERS HAVE TO SAY...

"I enjoy it more than any car I've ever owned." —Ohio foreman

"After shopping 8 different dealers, I bought the Falcon for $300 less than any competitive make with the same equipment." —Insurance underwriter

"Under 60 miles per hour you get 28 miles to the gallon." —Nebraska farmer

"Very nice size . . . and so very easy to maneuver." —Rhode Island railroad clerk

"Big luggage space for a compact." —Idaho airman

"It's so easy to get in and out." —73-year-old retired businessman

"I am 6 foot, 8 inches tall. This is the only car I've ever owned with ample head and leg room." —Midwest area auctioneer

"Styling incorporates the very best features from two higher-priced models. Falcon has the Thunderbird's cowl and hood and Lincoln's sculptured sides." —Railroad telegrapher

"Best body Ford ever made on a low-price car." —Aircraft flight engineer

The Popular Mechanics article concludes: "Obviously if you are interested in a compact . . . investigate a Falcon."

"Hear! Hear!" say more than a quarter of a million new Falcon owners.

Regular Check-Ups Prevent Baby Ills

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

It costs money to go to the doctor. Is it important? Grandmother says it's all a lot of nonsense running to the doctor all the time. Her children never saw a doctor unless they were really sick, and they did all right.

But did they? Maybe she has forgotten Uncle Ben's running ear that developed into a mastoid infection and caused deafness in his left ear. Maybe she doesn't believe that Aunt Alice really didn't have to suffer from flat feet all her life.

Statistics tell a little of the story.

In 1900, of every 1,000 babies born in this country about 100 died before they were 1 year old. By 1920 this figure had dropped considerably and by 1950 only three babies out of each 1,000 born died within the first year.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

Impressive as these figures are they do not tell the whole story. It isn't only that medical knowledge has increased to the point where we can keep babies alive, it is that we can prevent little ailments from becoming life long handicaps.

Tessy's mother thought her baby was just about perfect. She ate and slept and gurgled her contentment with life. She came in to the doctor's office for her one month check up. Her weight was good. She looked pink and healthy. But as the doctor laid her on her abdomen and stretched her legs down he noticed that the folds in her plump little buttocks and legs were not symmetrical. He turned her over and pulled on her legs and hips.

"We have trouble here," he said gently to Tessy's mother. "I want an x-ray of these hips."

EARLY TREATMENT

The x-ray showed, as the doctor feared, that the left hip bone was not properly in its socket. Tessy's legs and hips were put into a cast. It was a lot of trouble to take care of Tessy in that contraption, but in six months it was removed for good. Tessy is a 3-year-old now and runs and jumps like every other 3-year-old.

If healthy little Tessy had not been taken to the doctor it is likely no one would have recognized her deformity until she began to walk and the limp showed. While something could have been done for her even then it would have taken a much longer time and the results might not have been as good.

Lisa wasn't doing very well. The doctor worried about her more than her mother did. Lisa seemed happy and cheerful, but at her monthly visits to her doctor, she didn't show the amount of gain he thought she should. She seemed a little pale. The doctor couldn't find much wrong and went over the baby's feeding and regime carefully with Lisa's mother.

At the next monthly visit she was no better; in fact her blood count had dropped a little more. She was still happy at home and her parents were not concerned. However, they accepted their doctor's judgment and had some special tests run.

Lisa had a tiny obstruction at the neck of her bladder. It was repaired by an operation. Then Lisa bloomed and it was only when her parents saw the amazing improvement in her that they realized how listless she really had been. If that tiny obstruction had not been found and removed Lisa would never have grown up.

Our aim is buoyant health for every child. We cannot always achieve it, but there are many many little things that can be detected early and prevented from becoming lifelong handicaps.

'Fol-de-Rol In Gold' Theme Set For Opera Guild's Oct. 5 Event

The San Francisco Opera Guild's 1960 Fol-de-Rol and Opera Ball will have the theme of "Fol-de-Rol in Gold," it was announced today by Mrs. Richard Ham, Guild chairman, and Mrs. Edward Griffith, 1960 Fol-de-Rol chairman.

The theme is inspired by this year's San Francisco Opera revival of Puccini's "The Girl of the Golden West" which will mark the 50th anniversary of the opera's world premiere. The Fol-de-Rol will be at 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 5, in the Civic Auditorium.

Hailed as one of the musical world's most unique fund-raising events, the annual Fol-de-Rol features "a million dollars worth of talent" as some of opera's biggest names take turns singing popular favorites. All participants, including soloists, ballet, stage hands, orchestra members, and choristers donate their services. Proceeds help the Guild finance student performances and new settings for the San Francisco Opera.

Simultaneous with the announcement of the 1960 theme, Guild publicity chairman, Mrs. Dewey Donnell of Sonoma, revealed that members of the Fol-de-Rol production committee would join soprano Dorothy Kirsten, tenor Raymond Manton, and baritone James Standard in a junket to Virginia City, Nev., where the three singers, all of whom will be in "The Girl of the Golden West" this fall, will soak up atmosphere for their roles.

The group will fly up Aug. 3 and tentatively plan to stay three days at the Silver Dollar Hotel. They will survey Piper's Opera House, locate the "hanging tree" where Dick Johnston (the hero in the opera) almost met his death, and Miss Kirsten will brush up on her horseback riding, since she will actually mount a steed on the stage this fall.

By VIVIAN BROWN

"Parents seem to expect more of an only child than they should," writes a 16-year-old Midwestern girl who says that up until now she has been "performing like a trained seal for them."

She doesn't object to their affection and interest, but she thinks that when there is just one child at home, the parent has nothing else to do but worry about her.

"Why can't my mother let me enjoy friendships without trying to control my every move?" she asks. "She hovers over me when boys are around and acts like I'm not appreciated if the boy doesn't fall all over me.

"My father sometimes sits in his car, watching from a distance to make sure that the boy leaves a dance with me. Then he hurries home and tries to get the car in the garage before we drive up to the house. This really puts a crimp in an evening because the boys always know what he is up to.

"My parents take offense if I am not invited to every party that goes on in town. They can't imagine anyone not loving me as they do, I guess.

"What bothers me is the prospect of this sort of thing continuing. They don't want me to date steady, so I don't, just to please them. I must go on every vacation with them. I must go to visit friends on Sunday when they go visiting. I must go to my grandmother's, if they decide it is a good idea. My mother will not let me buy a hat, dress or shoes unless she is along to help me select them. Lately I have gotten the feeling that my family keeps me in a cage, and that even when they let me out briefly, they are hovering over it awaiting my return.

"I don't want to hurt their feelings, but they are making me very nervous by their attitude. Should I tell them?"

Your problem is a double one at the moment, of course, and it may very well ease up later. Parents are likely to be overly protective toward a girl in her early teens, especially when she begins to date. They worry about her, and they should, until she displays signs of maturity, and being able to cope with situations that are new to her because of her age.

PARENTAL LOVE

They love you, and want other people to love you, and in that feeling they are not different from parents who have more children. The difference is that the mother of a large family cannot worry about small details such as whether her offspring are popular enough to go to every party in town.

Boys will never resent your father's indulgence toward you, and a good type will respect your father for his protective instinct. It is the way a boy who likes you should feel about you. The fact that it crimps his style as far as necking goes, does not enter into it. If you want to be cozy with him, invite him to your own living room. Chances are your parents will let you sit up with him there, so that he may get all the sweet nothings off his chest. Your parents will be delighted to have you at home with your friend.

New Furniture Occupies Very Little Wall Space

CHICAGO (UPI)—Much of the new furniture on display recently at the international home furnishings market occupied little wall space.

It hung at the foot of beds, fit under windows, turned corners, went to all heights in storage chests for narrow walls, or stood free.

The hanging pieces were a desk and bookcase. They hooked onto the footboards of convertible bunk-to-twin beds to provide a study space in the small bedroom. If the same pieces occupied floor space close to the bed, they would make a small room look cramped. Hung on the bed, they seemed like an extension of it.

Under-the-window cabinets and chests were designer Sanford Wallack's solution to the problem of limited wall space in many-windowed rooms. The four pieces in this Danish-modern group—corner unit, commode, chest and dresser—were just 28¾ inches high, and fit under average windows. As its name implies, the corner unit fit into another usually-tight spot as well as under windows. The corner unit had full-depth drawers, and all four pieces in the group are available with either walnut-finished or plastic tops.

For the narrow wall in a bedroom, there was a slim chiffonier that held practically a year-round wardrobe in seven drawers and 50½ inches of height. For all the storage space it provided, it occupied only 28½ x 18 inches of floor space, and fit comfortably along a 30-inch wall.

Hi-boy and storage cases by the same manufacturer did the same trick for narrow living room or study walls. Each occupied only 30 x 16 inches of floor space, but rose to 63 inches in height. Both units were divided into four shelves, open on one unit, covered by doors on the other. The open shelves were backed with an elegant, but washable, tortoise-shell design that reversed to a walnut-finished side.

"I should have waited for you under a calendar instead of a clock!"

Edward Boessenecker Parents Of A Girl

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Boessenecker of Mill Valley announced the birth of their second daughter on July 4 at Mary's Help Hospital, San Francisco. The little girl, who weighed 7 pounds 9 ounces has three brothers, John, James and Mark, and one sister, Anne.

The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gherardi and Mrs. Joseph W. Boessenecker, all of San Francisco.

Beach Board's Picnic Table, Sun Shield

Beach-goers are discovering that a four-foot square panel of ¼" plywood can be a handy piece of equipment for the sun bather and swimmer.

The hardboard panel is a table, too, for beach picnics or for keeping towels and robes out of thes and, a desk for writing letters while basking in the sun, an excellent card table on which to play games, and a place for the wet bather to sit instead of on the sand.

If the beach is pebbly, it provides a comfortable place to sit or lie.

The tempered Prestawood panel may be purchased at a lumber yard. The corners should be rounded and the edges beveled slightly to present a neat appearance. At each corner, about two inches in from the edges, holes 1½" in diameter should be drilled or cut with a scroll saw. On the beach, pop bottles can be inserted into these holes to hold the table off the sand.

Another use of the board is as a sun shade. Prop it up with a couple of sticks inserted in the corner holes.

Both sides should be painted with appropriate gay designs. One primer and two finish coats are recommended. Alternating red and white stripes are attractive, as are decals applied on top of the painted finish.

Two Youth Groups Tour Hospital

Two youth groups visited Marin General Hospital just before the school year ended.

Brownie Troop No. 188 was escorted by the Mesdames John Leonardi, James Orr and Bernard Foster of San Anselmo. They were shown through their own community hospital by a volunteer Pink Lady, Mrs. Hugh Carruthers of Kentfield.

Girls enjoying the tour were Christine De Maestri, Adrienne Diebel, Diane Foster, Ann Marie Gore, Nancy Irons, Maria Elena Jenkins, Barbara Kelley, Marianne Larsen, Linda Leonardi, Rosana Orr, Jo Lynn Riboli and Laura Tonini.

Mrs. Frank Moore, Director of Volunteers, conducted another tour for the CYO St. Anselm's School fourth grade students. Mesdames Woodrow Wilson and Walter Anderson of San Anselmo were leaders attending and members were Pamela Anderson, Bonnie Wilson, Catherine Lindelli, Diana Grove, Eileen Murray, Maureen Murray, Linda Scatena and Leanne Cerruti.

Talks By Ambassadors To Key BPW Convention In Philadelphia

Among the thousands of members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club who will convene in Philadelphia for their National Convention on July 17-22 will be Mrs. Zella Stone, president of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Representing more than 16,000 members in her state, Mrs. Stone will be an official delegate to this convention. California's delegates-at-large chosen at State Convention in May of this year will be as follows: Mrs. Elizabeth E. Chapman, junior past president, Stockton; Mrs. Jeanne Chisholm, Woodland Hills; Mrs. Gladys Anne Sheerin of Visalia; Mrs. Dorothy Haight, Sacramento; and Jo Wheeler, Los Angeles. District presidents of the 12 districts in the state will also attend the convention.

A special chartered plane is scheduled to carry these delegates and conventioners to Philadelphia, with the flight originating in San Francisco, with a stop at the International Airport in Los Angeles.

Ambassador George K. C. Yeh, ambassador from the Republic of China to the United States, will address the opening night session on Sunday, July 17, in Convention Hall, Philadelphia. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador from the United States to the United Nations, will address the closing night banquet on Thursday, July 21.

Arch N. Booth, the executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will give the keynote address on Monday morning, July 18. Other convention speakers include Metropolitan Opera star Blanche Thebom and noted engineer Dr. Lillian F. Gilbreth. Delegates and visitors to the convention will also have an opportunity to hear the Philadelphia Orchestra in a concert at Robin Dell, and to attend Sunday morning worship services on the Mall at Independence Hall.

Miss Grace B. Daniels, Kingston, Pa., national president of the National Federation, will deliver the president's address and preside over all sessions.

More than 5,000 delegates and visitors from the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia will take part in the five-day convention. A new federation just organized in the Virgin Islands will be welcomed on the convention program.

From Philadelphia, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Cravens Douglass of El Segundo, second vice president, and Dr. Muriel Duncan, Beverly Hills, will drive to Washington, D. C., to visit the national headquarters of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and the Research Foundation. Mrs. Stone's return flight will be via State Headquarters of the California Federation of Business and Women's Clubs in San Francisco.

Expert Gives Training Tips For Teenagers Eating Habits

NEW YORK (UPI)—Parents who use food as an emotional football call the wrong signal for teaching their children good eating habits. A better method is based on the youngsters' own desires for improved appearance, physical fitness and social acceptance, says a nutrition authority.

These tips on training teenagers in good eating habits come from Charlotte M. Young, professor of medical nutrition at Cornell University. She spoke at a Melamine Council symposium on the revolution in American diet.

"Few children in this country suffer from severe nutritional problems," Dr. Young said, "(but) many suffer from emotional conflicts which center around the feeding process."

Her prescription for avoiding this also called for parents setting a good example themselves, by serving and eating well-balanced, attractive, well-prepared and varied meals.

For verbal persuasion, she suggested:

". . . Many a girl with a weight problem will drink milk when it is presented as one of the most effective ways of staving off hunger when she is on a calorically-restricted diet."

Dr. Young cited a Pennsylvania study on adolescent attitudes toward milk which indicated that their primary reason for drinking it was its contribution to health, vigor, vitality and personal appearance. The same study showed teenagers' most frequent reasons for rejecting milk were their beliefs that it was a baby's or child's food, and that it was fattening.

She also passed on a set of rules from the director of a California teen-age medical clinic that youngsters themselves should be quick to approve. They are:

—Give teen-agers credit for knowing something, and a chance to talk and ask questions. Allow them to disagree verbally, even though you stick to your guns, based on your sounder knowledge of good nutrition.

—Remember that there is no perfect food, but that even the snacks you worry about—such as milk shakes and hamburgers—contain valuable proteins as well as carbohydrates and fats.

—Teach by example, not by talking. This means having fruits and vegetables at your own coffee breaks, instead of on a long term basis, not "meal-by-meal" or "day-by-day."

Long Plans Needed For Narrow Lot

Summer is often the season when prospective western home owners sally forth in search of the perfect lot to build a dream on.

Don't pass up the long narrow lot just because it looks impossible or doesn't have quite the view you want. An architect can consolidate your ideas and requirements, adjust them to your lot shape, and usually come up with even more space than you bargained for.

One trick is to string bedrooms out like beads and connect them with a long hall. The garage up front — as close to the street as zoning permits—leaving room for living-dining and outdoor living areas in the rear.

A side entryway floored with a durable material like quarry tile can lead to the living room. If your lot slopes to the rear you can take advantage of that fact by building a lower-level recreation room with adjoining patio or terrace. Here again unglazed ceramic or quarry tile makes the perfect, easy-to-care-for surface for both indoors and out.

Other areas where your architect is likely to advise using low-maintenance and long-wearing materials like real tile are halls, bathrooms and kitchens.

Another advantage a narrow lot may offer is the potential for unusual landscaping

...and wouldn't you know...a woman dreamed it up!

A simple curl does it! Result? A better tasting, fresher staying loaf... made better by a woman's idea! You see, Blue Seal employs a woman as home economist. She runs tests for freshness, texture and flavor of Blue Seal Bread. One day she said to us —

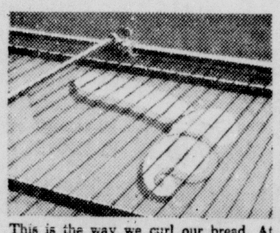
"Why don't we try curling our bread?"

"What for?" we retorted. "To make it prettier?"

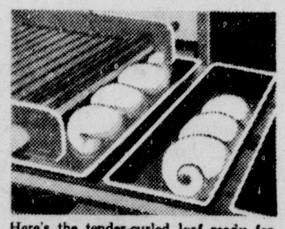
"No," she said..."to make it taste better and stay fresher."

Well, we tried it...and...she was right! We found curling the dough stretches the breadcells, makes the bread more tender. Presses out air bubbles, too...to keep the bread fresher. Gives it a smoother, more even texture. And the extra baking gives it a better flavor.

So now every loaf of Blue Seal is tender-curled. No, we haven't changed the fine Blue Seal recipe. Everything's the same except the curl. Yes, even bread can be made better...with a woman's touch. Try a loaf. You'll say it's the finest bread yet!



This is the way we curl our bread. At first we did it by hand. Then we designed a machine to do it so we could curl lots of loaves. Now everybody can have tender-curled Blue Seal Bread



Here's the tender-curled loaf ready for the oven. Don't confuse tender-curling with harsh twisting. They may look alike but the new tender-curled Blue Seal Bread will win your taste test.

Look for BLUE SEAL at your grocer's...

Now it's Tender-Curled

What Will I-J Write About If Mrs. Booth Really Goes?

Women in public affairs are not a rarity in Marin County. We have seen a good many women serve on city councils, several as mayor. Others have served on various other boards and commissions like school boards and planning commissions.

Mrs. Vera Schultz of Mill Valley is rounding out her second term on the county board of supervisors.

We have women city clerks and county department heads.

But none is more widely known than Mrs. Carmel Booth of San Anselmo. Her resignation from the city council and announced intention to depart from Marin will leave a void.

The most cynical would say, "What is the I-J going to write about now?"

It is true that, if Mrs. Booth leaves as intended, there will be one less lively source of news in Marin.

Some editorial sage of long ago said that one of the highest aims of a newspaper ought to be to "comfort the afflicted, and afflict the comfortable."

The discharge of this responsibility in Marin County was practically automatic for a newspaper attempting to follow Mrs. Booth's activities.

She comforted the afflicted in much unpublicized volunteer work in and out of established health and welfare agencies. And she certainly afflicted sometimes-too-comfortable public officials.

Mrs. Booth is a woman of strong opinion, strong emotion, strong will. When she "went after" somebody, they could just bet that life would be quite unpleasant until she let up.

Unswerving as she can be in her convictions, she nevertheless has a softhearted side — pretty well concealed most of the time, but always there.

Like any outspoken person in public life, Mrs. Booth has many critics and detractors. But we suspect if they knew her better, their criticism would soften.

For she has one attribute that, it seems to us, is only found in the great.

She had the ability to forget enmity, in time, and replace it with respect and friendship. The most recent example of this was her public support for Supervisor William D. Fusselman, her arch foe of many previous years.

If she is to leave the public scene now (we keep saying "if" because we find the idea very difficult to accept), her influence will be missed and we feel that we will be the worse for that.

A Charming Feathered Personality

A drab grey little feathered fellow with a squeaky voice—that's one way to describe Marin's permanent resident, the plain titmouse. But it would scarcely do him justice if we stopped there.

With his perky manners and bright black eyes, he is a favorite of many of our county's bird lovers. His only claim to satorical distinction is the grey crest on the top of his head. However, he overcomes his plainess with the charm of his personality.

His diet consists of ants and other insects with some seeds and fruits thrown in. We are told he is particularly hungry for sunflower seeds.

He and his mate build their nest in a hole in a tree or stump. These are usually deserted woodpecker homes. However, he has also been known to make his dwelling place in knot-holes in houses.

He is a bit on the shy side and easy to miss but those who know him are exceedingly fond of him.

What Is To Become Of All Us Now That Instant Beer's Here?

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—A thirsty world receives with a mixture of trepidation and delight the news that a British brewery has come up with a formula for instant beer.

Leave it to perfidious Albion to put a head on the 20th century's scientific development. While scientists most everywhere else in the world were mucking about with rockets and missiles, her majesty's laboratory legions, in true Alec Guinness fashion, were busy trying to extract a presto pint from their test tubes.

After many a long night and many a longer morning after, the breakthrough finally came at Burton-on-Trent, one of England's oldest foam factories.

It is still too early to tell whether the brewmaster will be knighted for his efforts and thereby become history's first bona fide beer baron.

However, now that the staff has sobered up from the hic heard round the world, it is time to consider what this singular achievement means in terms of our civilization and our way of life as we know it, or used to know it.

What, for instance, is to become of the venerable custom of going on the water wagon? Armed with a pail of sudden suds, the reform-minded souse certainly would fall off before he ever really got on, thereby dooming a perfectly usable expression to early obsolescence.

And think what will happen to the office lush. He won't even have to wait for the lunch whistle to wet his whistle. Right under the boss's nose and on company time, he can get a beautiful bun on simply by making periodic trips to the water cooler. If that arouses too much suspicion, he can always lap up the leavings in the saucer beneath the window plants.

Five years from now, Old Faithful Geyser and the Hoover Dam would undoubtedly be the nation's busiest saloons.

ALCOHOLIC ANONYMOUS would have to set up emergency chapters at every aqueduct, spillway, lake, fountain, and rain barrel in the land, and perhaps dispatch one of the faithful every time a backsliding member felt like turning on a faucet.

A BOY SCOUT pulling on a canteen would be as suspect as a Bowery bum swigging on a pint bottle in a doorway.

The country's myriad closet drinkers could at last come out of the closet and get their kicks with the garden sprinkler.

THE CYNIC'S CORNER By Interlandi

"For heavens sake, stop waving at the cameras . . . they'll see you in Des Moines . . . !"

REMEMBER WHEN

10 YEARS AGO

A San Anselmo reader of the Independent-Journal wrote that as it's a centennial year maybe people should know that "100 years ago Marin had a population of 3,334 inhabitants — 2,339 white males, 758 white females, 22 free colored males, one free colored female, 85 male Indians, 45 female Indians, 47 male half-breeds, 33 female half breeds, four male Chinese (no female Chinese, gosh!)"

20 YEARS AGO

Plans by the California Division of Highways to call for bids turning the eight-mile "death strip" from San Rafael to Ignacio into a freeway were approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Marin's mosquito abatement workers agreed to help those of the Sonoma Valley in wiping out skeeters from marshland areas near Black Point, and northward.

THAT BUTTONS IT UP—

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fluoridation Issue Beclouded

The Independent-Journal welcomes contributions to "What Our Readers Say." Letters must be signed and must not exceed 300 words in length. The editor reserves the right to delete malicious material.

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Is there a dentist in the house? One who will answer the sort of fuzzy thinking put forth by Mr. Willat in the July 11 I-J?

We all agree, I'm sure, that proper nutrition and cleaning of teeth are essential to dental health. But does that make fluoridation a bugaboo? Few dentists think so. Here is a means of giving further protection to our children's teeth, a means so effective and so safe that a staggering long list of organizations—public, private, medical and dental — heartily endorse fuloridation as a step towards achieving better dental health for every youngster.

Do we eschew polio shots because they may make us less careful about our general health? Do we refuse to give our children vitamins because we may then forget to see that they have well-balanced meals? Do we fight the compulsory smallpox vaccinations because they don't do away with all disease? I think not.

The newly-pious attitude of the Marin Pure Water Association Association and other fluoridation opponents is hard to swallow. After asking us to believe that fluorides can poison us all (so could chlorine if its addition to the water were not carefully controlled), that fluoridation is a dangerous experiment (its introduction to our water in the approved amounts would be neither dangerous nor experimental), and so on, ad infinitum, they now want us to believe that they are terribly concerned over the problem of tooth decay and would love nothing better than to help "educate" parents and children in achieving better dental health. I don't want anyone trying to "educate" me who can't even tell truth from half-truth or wild untruth.

People who still have reservations about fluoridation should call the county health department, an organization of individuals notably well-educated on this and other questions of public health.

And please let us have no more hand-wringing, let-us-join - together pontifications from the anti-fluoridationists. Their crocodile tears only becloud the issue.

Sincerely,
MARY MINTON
(Mrs. John R. Minton)
Sausalito.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Ike To Defend Treasury Against Election Year Raid By Democrats

President Eisenhower is readying the sternest possible "State of the Union" message to the recess session of Congress next month to avert what he greatly fears — an election-minded, Democratically-controlled Congress running away with the public purse on the eve of the presidential campaign.

The President intends to take no lame-duck, above-the-battle attitude toward the Congress which will come back to Washington two weeks after the convention.

He is prepared to fight the spenders in his own party, if necessary, and he expects to have the active backing of the expected Republican presidential nominee, Vice President Nixon, in his attempt to hold the prospective spending bills in check.

MR. EISENHOWER has already informed some of his associates, including Mr. Nixon, that he does not intend to leave the initiative to the Congressional leadership.

He is planning to greet this unprecedented eve-of-the-campaign session with a concrete legislative program which he deems desirable and fiscally defensible. And he will alert the country to help resist what he sees as the massive danger of "pork-barrel" legislation which will throw the balanced Federal budget to the ends.

The best information is that the President intends to call into use all his powers, prestige, and popularity to shape the Congressional decision. And he will appeal over the head of Congress if needed.

He does not intend to sit back in the rocking chair of semi-retirement and let Congress put the Federal government into the red—or even near to a deficit—by a series of high appropriations which he would consider to be open and reckless bids for votes in the November election.

At least he does not intend to let Congress do this if he can prevent it—and he aims to prevent it.

THE PRESIDENT will not hesitate to use the veto freely—early and late in the session—if the bills exceed his limit of prudence. If legislation is passed with less than 10 days before adjournment, the President can use the "pocket veto." This means that when not signed, such bills automatically fail to become law.

What is likely to happen?

There is no doubt that the temptation to enact big-spending bills will be present when the House and Senate return to Washington to finish the legislative work interrupted by the conventions. They will not have much more than three weeks to do it in and the voting blocs, the 16,000,000 "senior citizens" over 65, workers who want a higher minimum wage, and school teachers and other groups who want federal aid to education—will be beckoning.

A substantial number of Democrats may prove to be more eager to create a "welfare" issue with the Eisenhower administration than they are to pass compromise legislation. This would express itself particularly in the matter of medical care for the aged. Here the Democrats may well delay until toward the end of the recess session and then give the President a measure which they know he will have to veto. But they will have adjourned and would not have to face the test of passing it over his veto.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Since World War I, points out Arthur Salemme, many cities in Eastern Europe have, through capture or legislation, been shifted across international borders. Such a city, for example, was the German city of Lemburg, renamed Lwow when it was ceded to Poland in 1919, and renamed again as Lvov when it was incorporated into the Soviet Union.

A schoolboy in 1958 made the mistake of mentioning in class that the real name of the city was Lemburg. The shocked teacher barked, "Pupil Ivanov will march to the front of the class and recite 10 times: Pupil will say we're in Lvov!"

"Mother," wailed the daughter of a confirmed beatnik. "I'm getting mighty tired of running around in circle." "Shut up," rasped the dear, Victorian mother, "or I'll nail your other foot to the floor." (Sick, sick, sick.)

Training Center For Retarded To Start In Fall At San Rafael

WHEN MARIN AID to Retarded Children was established six years ago, members knew that Marin County needed a nursery school, a summer recreation program and a work training center for retarded persons.

On Sept. 1 the work training center will open in a temporary building on the grounds of San Rafael High School, and MARC will have been successful in establishing all three of the needed services.

Mrs. Philip Lemler, who is handling applications for young adult enrollees in the program, reports that a screening committee will go over the applications and interview prospective trainees in August.

Five trainees will be accepted, to start with, with possibly more added by the end of the year. The emphasis will be on those in their late teens and 20s.

The center will provide on-the-job training within the skill of each enrollee. Some students will be placed in jobs in the community after training; others will continue to work in the center for a small remuneration.

THERE'S NO EXCUSE for anyone to sit around and put on weight this summer (I keep telling myself). The San Rafael summer recreation program provides lots of opportunity for exercise.

Swimming is free for the whole family Tuesday and Thursday nights at the San Rafael High School pool. And the cost is moderate on other days. Adult swimming lessons and a slim-trim course for women begin this week. Tuesdays and Thursdays are sports and game nights at the high school gym, with volleyball, basketball and exercises featured.

CAMPING ENTHUSIASTS will like a handy little booklet distributed by the state Division of Beaches and Parks and available at California State Auto Assn. offices.

The booklet gives a detailed description of the state park system with maps for each section of the state, pinpointing all parks. The number of campsites, picnic units, recreational facilities and other information are conveniently listed on a chart.

In Marin, for example, the booklet lists Angel Island State Park (50 picnic units, swimming, fishing), Mount Tamalpais State Park, (25 campsites, 61 picnic units), Samuel P. Taylor State Park (85 campsites, 126 picnic units), Stinson Beach State Park (50 picnic units, swimming, fishing) and Tomales Bay State Park (35 picnic units, swimming, fishing).

Plenty of additional spots are listed, too, in other counties within an easy weekend drive.

SAN RAFAEL'S superintendent of schools, Frank L. Lucas, recuperating at home from a heart condition that had him hospitalized for a few weeks, reports he is "getting along fine." A few people from the administration office have been in to discuss some school matters with him. He'll probably be "getting into things a little bit" next week, Frank says.

Conventions May Be Dull, But Revolution Really Taking Place

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1960 political conventions, although they figure to be the dullest in years, are in a very real sense part of the birth pangs of a new and revolutionary era.

It will be a double revolution—in men and events.

1. Almost everyhere around the world before the end of the 1960s a new, younger generation of men will have become the new leaders, none of whom was a dominant figure only 15 years ago when World War II ended.

2. The struggle between the United States and communism has within the past few months entered a new, intense, and unpredictable phase which will require new American vision, efforts, methods and strategy.

THE DEMOCRATIC convention this week and the Republican convention later this month blaze the way toward the new leadership when they pick their presidential candidates.

The Democrats have named Sen. John F. Kennedy, 43, while the Republicans will certainly choose Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 47. Only 15 years ago neither of them held any public office nor was known.

The older generation of leaders—all of whom were dominant figures by the end of the war—is coming to an end, either through retirement or through the disability or death which is the product of old age.

President Eisenhower's term ends six months from now. Time eventually will force out such others as France's President Charles de Gaulle, West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Nationalist China's Chiang Kai-shek, Red China's Mao Tse-Tung, India's Prime Minister, Nehru, and even Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

KENNEDY HAS already spoken at some length on the leadership problems ahead. Nixon says he is waiting until nominated to announce his own programs.

Even if Nixon were inclined to follow Eisenhower's conservative foreign policy, which was simply an extension of former President Truman's foreign policy, events would compel a change.

For example: In the past few months relations between the United States and the Soviet Union have reached their lowest point in years; tiny Cuba has become a major problem through Russian interference; this country will have to make efforts perhaps far broader and more intense than any ever made before to keep Latin America on the side of the United States.

THERE WILL BE the task of devising some new means, hardly considered necessary until very recently, to keep the new republics of Africa out of communism; to prevent communism from getting ahead in weapons; to stand off Red China which in these next 10 years will probably become powerful and aggressive in a way unimagined now.

In these next 10 years, unless the signs are wrong, the world may be in a turmoil yet undreamed of.

The Country Parson

Decision Reported Near On Juvenile Hall Funds

Probation Officer Walter H. Busher reported to the Marin County Probation Committee yesterday that decision is near on the proposal to borrow $300,000 from the Veterans Memorial Auditorium fund for construction of a new juvenile hall.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman, Busher said, has been meeting with veterans' organizations and explaining the proposal to replace the money, with interest, in three years. A report will go before the board of supervisors next Tuesday with hopes that the plan may at last be approved, he said.

Busher also reported on the move to name the school at the hall "Loma Alta" after a former school district now defunct. The supervisors approved this Tuesday.

Roy A. Ibach, committee chairman whose place was occupied yesterday by John Rockwell in Ibach's absence, was a member of the five-person committee which recommended the name. Walter R. Castro, chairman of the supervisors who pushed through approval, was also on the committee.

Tam Sanitary Board Member Leaves Post

John S. Cameron of 428 Green Glen Way, Mill Valley, resigned from the board of the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District Tuesday night, citing pressure of his business.

The board will receive application from interested persons who wish to fill out the two-year term of Cameron, said chairman Bruce J. Gillette.

State Finance Department Says 505 Marin Noses Lost

The California Department of Finance feels the U. S. Bureau of the Census did not quite count all the people in Marin County in April — 505 persons, as a matter of fact.

The department estimated that Marin County had an April population of 146,050 persons, while the Census Bureau reported 145,545 persons populated the county.

As of July 1 the department estimated the county population to be 148,060 persons, representing an increase of 62,441 from the federal census total on April, 10 years ago, of 85,619.

The Department of Finance, which makes population estimates each year for use in budgeting, estimated the April 1 population of California was 15,650,000, while the Census Bureau's field report showed 15,530,000. The department estimated the July 1 total state population at 15,830,000.

Carl M. Frisen of the department, the census count reported, this year by the Census Bureau "did not include persons away from home, persons who were counted too late, and members of crews of American military and merchant vessels in ports of the U.S."

Of the 52 counties which showed population gains in the 10-year span, Marin County ranked 13th. Orange County was highest, with a gain of 227.9, followed by Santa Clara, with 121 per cent, and Del Norte, with 116.4 per cent.

Gas Tax Produces $400 Million In Past Fiscal Year

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—California's 6-cent gasoline tax produced apportionments of more than 400 million dollars during the 1959-60 fiscal year, highest in history, State Controller Alan Cranston reported today.

Of the total apportionments of $413,748,870, Cranston said, $296,495,891 went into the state highway fund for expenditure on highways.

The 58 counties received $83,708,423, with Marin County getting $647,603. Another $33,544,556 went to the cities.

Arranged so businessmen can leave their offices as late as 6 p.m. on Fridays and be home with their families for Saturday evening dinner, the retreats start at 7 p.m. each Friday and finish at 3 p.m., each Sunday.

A special retreat for attorneys will be presented on the weekend of July 22.

Jeep Overturns, Injuring Boy, 16

A 16-year-old staff member of Camp Lilianthal, above Fairfax, was injured Tuesday when a jeep he was riding in turned over on a fire trail incline at the Boy Scout camp.

Treated at Marin General Hospital for a sprained back was Brian Newlorn of San Francisco. The jeep's driver, Robert Dyer, 18, of San Francisco was not injured.

San Francisco Asst. Scout Executive Maurice Powers said the boys were observing some campers and drove the jeep on too steep an incline off a fire trail. It turned over on its side, throwing Newlorn to the ground.

Defeated Candidates Tell Expense

Campaign expense statements from two candidates, who were defeated in the primary election last June, reached the county clerk's office by mail yesterday.

Harvey W. Killian of Greenbrae, who ran against Supervisor William D. Fusselman, reported he put up $391 for his campaign. Killian received no outside contribution at all.

Richard L. Less of Terra Linda, who ran for the Community Services District board, spent $60, all from his own pocket.

Andresen Heads Mill Valley Board

Robert H. Andersen, Mill Valley attorney, was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Mill Valley School District Tuesday night. He takes over from Mrs. Jean F. Rosse, who has held the job for two years.

Edward A. Kemp was elected clerk, George M. Wood vice clerk, and Kenneth N. Nelson, representative to the county committee on school district organization. G. Robert McConnell, district superintendent, was appointed secretary to the board.

Two Receive Awards For Work With Army

Two Marin residents who work at the Presidio of San Francisco recently received Army incentive awards.

Mrs. Ethelyn E. Verrill of 38 Ridge Road, San Anselmo, was awarded $150 for superior work in the transportation section. Mrs. Kathryn E. Pringle of 633 Woodbine Drive, San Rafael, clerk in civilian personnel division, received a $10 suggestion award.

Dixie School District Gets $209,732 Loan

The state allocations board yesterday approved a $209,732 loan to the Dixie School District for construction of an addition to Santa Margarita School.

The addition will include six classrooms, a library and a small special room.

Included in the loan is $140,000 for construction and $21,000 for site work. Additional funds are for equipment and furniture, architects fees, inspection and contingencies.

The entire project is being financed with the state funds, Supt. Dennie B. Willis said.

The allocations board also approved loans for construction of 100 other schools throughout the state in districts which have exhausted local bonding capacities.

Phone Company Buys Property

Stinson Beach property has been purchased for future construction of a dial equipment Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. building to serve both Stinson Beach and Bolinas, the company announced today.

Permission was recently obtained from the Marin County planners and supervisors to establish a temporary dial equipment trailer which will soon go on the 150 by 100-foot lot on the north side of Avendal Avenue, east of Calle del Mar, to serve before a permanent building is constructed.

Consolidated of the Stinson Beach and Bolinas exchanges was recently authorized by the California Public Utilities Commission in a decision calling for this action on or before March 31, 1962.

Neighbor Battle Results In Fine

Melvin Robert Sankey, 36, of 335 Ironstone Court, Marinwood, drew a $25 fine and four months' probation yesterday for disturbing the peace of a neighbor last May 31.

He pleaded guilty before Judge Harold J. Haley in Marin Municipal Court. His neighbor, Mrs. Marjorie Kisling, had complained that he had used foul language and had indecently exposed himself. The indecent exposure charge was dismissed.

Sheriff's inspectors said the Sankeys and Kislings have been battling over their property line for years. Sankey admitted that words had been exchanged between the two families, but denied the exposure accusation.

Real Estate Breakfast Group Hears Of Second Deeds Of Trusts

The subject of second deeds of trust gave material for a three way split discussion before the Marin County Real Estate Board Tuesday morning by realtors Ed P. Ward, Joseph Stewart and Jack Kragan. Though slanted for the professional broker it was a topic which also would have interested casual investors and home owners preparing to sell their property.

In this day of high real estate prices the gap between first mortgage money and available down payments is often hard to bridge without secondary financing. Sellers are frequently reluctant to take back a second deed of trust for the deficiency, feeling that it may be too great a risk.

Safety precautions were brought out by all three speakers. Ward pointed out that two rules of thumb for sellers are to make sure the down payment is equal to or larger than the second deed of trust and that total financing of first and second deeds does not exceed 85 per cent of the sales price. He also stressed the need for proper credit evaluation.

Stuart spoke on the remedies available to second trust deed holders in case of default. Few sellers, he said, understand that it is only necessary to notify the trustee in such instances to take steps which will carry the matter to court and enable them to repossess their property within 110 days. This differs from straight mortgage financing which under California law gives the borrower equity of redemption for one year after foreclosure.

Kragen of Saxe Mortgage Co. brought out that the essence of good second financing is not in the trust deed itself but in the provisions of the note it secures—particularly with reference to protective features if the property is resold before retirement of the loan.

All three agreed that second deed lenders should not charge unfair interest rates which tend to discourage the feeling of responsibility by purchasers caught in extensive financing.

IF FINANCING is a problem of home buying, not so in the automobile field.

Retail auto paper on June 1, though much higher than a year ago had seen during the preceding month the smallest seasonal gain since November, 1958.

Average note of new car buyers this year was not quite $2,600, about $60 less than a year ago—an effect, no doubt, of inroads made on the market by the less expensive compact car. Notes on used cars averaged about the same as last year—$1,100.

Meanwhile the output of 1960 model cars produced to date has exceeded the four million mark. Output for July should be around 450,000. The number of persons who say they plan to buy indicates that stocks will not be fully disposed of by the time new models are available.

ANNUAL CONVENTION of the north bay chapter of the American Institute of Building Design at the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica July 15 to 17 will find several Marin building designers in attendance.

Planning to make the trip are Edward Hageman of San Rafael, state vice president, Ray Hall and Don Hoffman of San Rafael and Novato respectively, and Ervin Hille of San Rafael, local chapter president.

FILLING and leveling of ground at Magnolia Ave. and Bon Air Road, Larkspur does not indicate that construction of Safeway's new market there is imminent.

Ground still has to settle before building which is probably 18 months away.

Driver Says His Vehicle Brushed By County Truck

A Woodacre resident complained to the sheriff Tuesday night that one of the county dump trucks, with a load of branches extending far beyond the body, brushed his car and shattered the rear view mirror.

Edward M. Maharg reported fragments from the glass caused a small cut on the right hand of his son Arthur, 5.

The mishap happened on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Samuel Taylor Park about 5 p.m. The truck continued toward Fairfax, and Maharg had to chase it down. The truck driver, who identified himself as a Mr. Duvanto said he thought he had hit something but was not sure, according to Maharg.

Today is Thursday, July 14, the 196th day of the year, with 170 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1789, the citizens of Paris stormed the Bastille and released the political prisoners of the monarchy.

In 1798, Congress passed the Sedition Act of 1798, making it a crime to publish any "false, scandalous and malicious" writing against the government, the Congress or the president.

In 1853, President Franklin Pierce opened the world's fair in New York City.

In 1940, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were annexed by Russia.

In 1945, the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force went out of existence in Frankfurt-Am-Main, Germany.

A thought for today: British author William Makepeace Thackeray said: Bravery never goes out of fashion."

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D.
Guidance Counsellor

If You Want To Adopt A Baby, Work Through A Licensed Agency

Want to adopt a baby? There are bad things about adoptions as well as good.

Let's look at some harsh realities.

Most of the babies available for adoption are born out of wedlock. Their mothers and fathers have violated our moral code. A large share of the parents are rebellious, neurotic teen-agers. Their babies will not inherit their immorality. But they may inherit some other basic weaknesses.

There's a gamble to every adoption, and you should know it.

Many childless couples who can't adopt tiny babies accept older children. They take a greater gamble. The first months and years have a lot to do with lifelong mental health. A boy who was seriously neglected and abused during his first two or three years is sure to have troubles. Don't adopt a half-grown child without having a psychologist check on his babyhood and early childhood. If the psychologist says conditions were highly unfavorable, look elsewhere.

You'll find qualified psychologists on the faculty of your nearest college.

A few of the mothers who place their children for adoption are crooks. They arrange the adoptions through gullible doctors. Then they blackmail the folks who take their babies.

Many of the mothers are honest, but confused. Today they agree to place their babies. Tomorrow they relent. This month they realize they cannot give them the advantages they need. Next month they're positive they are the only ones who could. They can drive you crazy.

Want to adopt a baby? Then go to a licensed, non-profit adoption agency. These agencies know the risks. They'll protect the baby, the mother and you.

READERS' FORUM

(Q)—"I read in a magazine about a big city black market in babies. The writer said crooked doctors and lawyers persuaded mothers to sell their babies for fantastic sums and then pocketed the profit. Is this true?"

—C.V.

(A) I've no reason to doubt it. Black markets in babies have been exposed many times, but they continue to operate.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

State Steel Producer Feels Foreign Pinch

FONTANA (AP) — Domestic steel producers, accustomed to feeling the pinch of foreign competition, now probably would classify it more properly as a painful squeeze.

That's the view of William J. Gleason, manager of export sales for Kaiser Steel Corp. He told an interviewer enough steel currently is coming to the West Coast from the Orient, Australia and Europe to keep 3,500 employees at Kaiser's big Fontana plant busy 52 weeks a year — if Kaiser had the business instead.

Latest figures, said Gleason, indicate total United States imports for 1960 will show an increase of one million tons — boosting the overall figure to 5½ million tons.

Earlier this month, two open hearths and one blast furnace at the Kaiser plant here were removed from operation. A subsequent reduction in force brought the number of employees on layoff status to well over 1,000 — this from a March employment peak of 8,588.

Gleason said his company's export business is down 50,000 tons from a 1958 high of 100,000 tons.

What put the sting in the pinch from abroad?

Price is the big factor, Gleason said. Imported steel has traditionally been attractively priced. Quality, apparently, is the new factor.

Gleason noted that there has been great expansion in the European, Asian and South American steel industry. Many mills in those areas now have the most modern U.S. steelmaking equipment.

The argument that imported steel is inferior isn't heard so often any more.

He cited these representative cost figures: Foreign pipe is available here at $30 to $58 a ton cheaper than Kaiser can deliver it; reinforcing bar $20 to $30 a ton cheaper; plate up to $25 less; and tin plate $12 under domestic prices.

The only answer for domestic producers, said Gleason, is advanced economy of manufacture plus improved quality and service.

Sugar Beet Growers Start Conference

MONTEREY (AP)—With general interest high on the subject of sugar supplies and prices, the California Beet Growers Assn. Ltd. opened its annual summer meeting today. The conference will end Saturday.

Owen S. Rice of Santa Maria, president of the farmer-owned coop, said: "A number of subjects vitally important to California's sugar beet growers will come before the board for discussion and decision at these sessions.

"Included are production and marketing problems, extension of the Federal Sugar Act and production restrictions, as well as other regulations."

The 1959 sugar beet harvest in California amounted to 198,964 tons. The average tonnage per acre hit a record of 23.80 tons, an increase of 4.7 tons over the poor crop of 1958.

Growers believe the 1960 crop also will be a good one. The dry winter and spring permitted planting in good season.

Gordon Lyons, executive manager of the association, with headquarters in Stockton, said California's production allotment this year is 216,960 acres. This is very near to factory processing capacity, he said and shows a need for increased processing facilities in the state.

Mill Valley Police Jail Serviceman

George N. Nesbitt, 22, of the Mount Tamalpais Air Force Station was jailed by Mill Valley police Tuesday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, a 15-year-old Mill Valley girl.

Police were called at 1:10 a.m. yesterday by a Mill Valley resident who said he heard voices outside his home as if two people were fighting. Police said that the airman was trying to molest the girl. Another man was reported with Nesbitt, police said, but both had disappeared when officers arrived at the scene on West Blithedale Avenue.

The other man, Hal McGregor, 18, also surrendered to police, but was released.

Street Upkeep Meeting Slated

A second meeting of city and county representatives to discuss a basis for county contributions to city street upkeep will be held at 10 a.m. July 21 at the county planning commission office, 1711 Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

A sample application of a formula worked out by Orange County will be presented to the meeting by County Administrator D. A. Jensen. At an initial meeting the group recently decided on a list of arterial routes passing through cities, but of county interest, to be earmarked for county upkeep in part.

Those Danish O's Cross Up Students

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dr. Borge Bak, Danish physicist, got a chuckle from posters on the University of Oklahoma campus advertising the appearance of "Dr. Brge Bak."

His name is spelled with a Danish letter which resembles an "o" with a line through it.

Printers thought the line meant for the letter to be omitted—which they did.

YESTERDAY'S CHARM
Today's Conveniences

This is an older home in the choice Dominican Convent area that has been smartly modernized. It was practically rebuilt in 1952 with new foundation, roof, plumbing, wiring and interior plaster. None of the gracious dignity of an earlier era has been lost and it gives the large family space so hard to find in a contemporary home. 3 bedrooms plus sleeping porch, 2½ baths, huge modern kitchen with dishwasher, disposal, 2 sinks. Banquet-size dining room, extra large living room. Beautiful level lot, ideal for children. Traffic-free location. Owner has moved East and is desirous of a quick sale. (Eves. call ED 2-2004).

Railroad Club Plans Picnic

The summer picnic of the Redwood Empire Railroad Club will be held Sunday at Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Roy Ellis, club president, said today that all railroad men, ex-railroad men and their families are invited to attend the all-day affair. They should take their own lunches, but the club will furnish the coffee, he said. There will be signs to direct participants to the railroad club area.

Further information may be obtained from Ellis at 31 Laurelwood avenue, Mill Valley.

Budget Approved By Tamalpais Sanitary Board

A final 1960-61 budget of $34,880 for the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District was approved last night by the district's board.

This is about $1,000 over last year's budget, said Chairman Bruce J. Gillette. New construction and repairs of the pumphouse which broke down last year necessitated the raise, he said.

Gillette said that a slightly higher tax rate will be needed. Last year's rate was 86 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

It was reported to the directors, Gillette said, that the total assessed evaluation of the district is $2,100,000 or $400,000 more than last year.

Sausalito Theater Schedules Tryouts

Tryouts for four sketches, "The Continued Fall of Man," will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Sausalito Little Theater at 745 Bridgeway. Actors and technical people are needed, according to Joan La Fontaine.

The satirical sketches, written by Enid Foster, who will also direct and design the sets and costumes, are called "Rest in Pieces," "What Every Tart Should Know," "Down In The World" and "The Voice In The Park." Performances are scheduled for Sept. 23, 24, 30 and Oct. 1.

Marinites Can Enter District Fair

PETALUMA — Residents of Sonoma and Marin counties are eligible to place entries in the arts and crafts show of the annual Sonoma-Marin District Fair in Petaluma Aug. 11-14.

The work of professional and amateur artists will be judged separately, with three sections in each class: oils, water colors and graphic arts.

Exhibitors are limited to two entries in any one section. Art display entries must be originals—not stamped patterns or copies, and work must have been done by the exhibitor and not previously shown at the Sonoma-Marin District Fair.

Photography must be entirely the work of the exhibitor with the exception of processing and mounting.

All prints must be black and white or toned. No other coloring process will be accepted, such as tinting.

No entry fee is charged for exhibiting in the arts and crafts show. Cash premiums will be paid to the first, second and third place winners in each section.

Arthur Canavan, secretary-manager of the district fair, has announced that entries for the arts and crafts show will close at 5 p.m. on July 29

A large role will be taken by the 349th planes and personnel based at Hamilton with attached squadrons at Portland, Ore., Everett, Wash., and Sacramento. Exercises will be over the Fort Bragg, N.C., area during the middle of next month.

Under California-born Moore, a brigadier general at 34, will be 600 Air Force Reserve aircraft which will spew forth 11,000 paratroopers and 6,000 tons of heavy equipment in the course of Brightstar-Pinecone III exercises.

He Just Asked Way —Then Was Nabbed

Charles Roger Jr., stationed at Newport, R.I., paid a $100 fine for drunken driving.
